

City's Sewer System Maintenance Cost Was $9,795 for This Year

Of that amount $7,945.77 was paid to labor, States Annual Report of Superintendent David Conway.

92 MILES OF SEWERS

Extensive System Ranges in Size from Six to 60-inch Pipe.

The cost of maintenance and operation of the sewer system in Kingston during the past year amounted to $9,795.11, and of that amount $7,945.77 was paid to labor, according to the annual report of Superintendent David Conway, of the board of public works.

With the increase in mileage of sewers constructed during the past four years and the construction of two pumping stations, the matter of maintenance requires more and closer attention. Superintendent Conway writes in his annual report. He calls attention to the fact that at the present time the sewer system comprises 92 miles of sewer mains ranging in size from six inches to 60 inches in diameter. About one-half of the system is separated as to sanitary and storm water use and the remainder is combined as to both. The operating maintenance of this system is carried on by a force of three men equipped with wind-lance operated steel cable sewer cleaner, high pressure water hose and nozzles, steel sectional ratchets, rodding cable with necessary attachments, rodding sticks and small tools appropriate to the work.

42 Inch Rainfall.

During the last year a total rainfall of 42 inches was recorded and this amount constantly taxes the system and requires very close attention properly to keep the line clean. Considerable difficulty was experienced this year on deep sewer stand pipes and on storm water mains due to the heavy load to which they were subjected. A break in the Broadway sewer main at Strand indicated that weakness appears when this old type brick sewer is subjected to present day traffic.

Again, the condition of the street surface on Broadway from the West Shore Railroad crossing east to Pine Grove avenue indicates that the points of this main are getting weak and steps should be taken to repair this. On February 2, the Wrentham street pump station was completed, together with sanitary sewers in the Roosevelt Park area and is now being maintained by this department. Each week the two stations are flushed and cleaned in order to maintain the proper condition.

Catch Basins Cleaned
Catch basins throughout the city were cleaned in the spring and again in mid-November after the leaves were removed, in order that they might operate efficiently. Manholes are cleaned throughout the year.

Repair to sewer mains, manholes and catch basins is done by three masons and helpers as required. Many basins were rebuilt during the season and others still require repair or replacement.

During the past year 1,375 manholes were cleaned, 42 catch basins were rebuilt, 13 new catch basins were built, 4 new manholes were constructed and 3 manholes were raised.

The department also repaired sewer mains on a number of streets and the various brooks throughout the city, comprising about five miles.

Treasury Receipts.

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—The position of the treasury December 20: Receipts, $66,118,950.31; expenditures, $130,129,632.58; balance, $3,059,180,895.37; customs receipts for the month, $20,778,150.72. Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $3,069,244,545.59; expenditures, $3,046,798,302.81, including $970,621,706.03 of emergency expenditures; excess of expenditures, $227,113,756.92; gross debt, $3,313,311,530.42, a decrease of $356,630,685.28 below the previous day; gold assets, $1,247,430,052.73, including $1,232,430,540.31 of inactive gold.

Industrial Fatalities.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 22.—During November the state department of labor received preliminary reports of 103 industrial accidents which caused the death of 100 men and 3 women employed in various New York state industries covered by the workmen's compensation law, according to a statement issued today by Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews. Twenty-four of the 103 fatalities were reported by manufacturing industries, 24 by construction, 19 by trade, 17 by service, 11 by public employment, 5 by transportation and 3 by other miscellaneous industries.

Congress Begins 12 Days of Festivities, Program Up in Air

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—Members of Congress left the administration's special session program up in the air today and began a 12-day Christmas vacation that will defer enactment of major legislation until the new year.

The sudden adjournment at dusk yesterday, after the Senate passed the housing bill 66 to 4, found none of President Roosevelt's recommendations actually written into law.

Administration leaders, however, contended the session had served a valuable purpose in finishing preliminary work on farm, housing and other administration measures. Final approval of these will be sought at the regular session convening January 3.

Democratic Leader Bakley (D., Ky.) asserted the session had clipped from six weeks to two months off the regular 1938 session. The Republican leader, Senator McNary, of Oregon, predicted the regular session would end in May "if the President doesn't keep sending new recommendations to Congress."

McNary, however, asserted the special session was a failure and that it "did not in any way carry out the program of the President."

Leaders originally had intended to wind up the five-week session today so that a joint conference committee could adjust differences in the House and Senate housing bills before adjournment. Some of the men appointed to the committee, however, were among the many members who already had gone home, necessitating postponement of final action until January.

Farm Bill in Category.

Farm legislation, key item on the administration program, is in the same status as the housing legislation. Crop control bills passed both Houses, and now are before a conference committee which will meet late next week.

Bakley predicted both the farm and housing measures would be sent to the White House almost immediately after the regular session convenes.

Another Roosevelt recommendation—establishment of wage and hour standards—was sailed away in the House labor committee because of a House vote to recommit it "for further study."

That revolt, led by southern Democrats and northern Republicans, was the greatest legislative setback for the administration since the court bill was sidetracked last summer.

Recommitment usually is tantamount to killing a measure, but friends of the wage-hour bill expressed the hope it might be resurrected by a new presidential request for enactment.

Chairman O'Connor (D-N.Y.) of the House rules committee, asserted that debate on the bill had "cleared the air."

"This may well be of benefit," he said, "in working out a bill in the regular session which will be acceptable to a majority of the members and will meet with the views of the proponents."

The wage-hour measure already has passed the Senate.

A fourth segment of the administration program—government reorganization—was slated by Bakley today for Senate action immediately after debate on the anti-lynching bill, which the Senate has agreed to begin January 6.

Regional planning bills, also on the administration's special session program, are pending before House and Senate committees.

Tax revision will be a paramount issue early in the regular session. The widespread clamor for modification or repeal of taxes pressing most heavily on business went unanswered in the special session because a House tax subcommittee found the task too intricate to finish in a hurry.

Loyalists Capture Teruel; Franco to Form New Defense

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Dec. 22 (AP)—Government forces have captured Teruel, insurgent officers said they were advised today by Generalissimo Francisco Franco's headquarters. Official government dispatches—following an earlier premature announcement that the strategic provincial capital had been occupied—indicated part of the old quarter known as "The City of Rock" remained in insurgent hands.

Only isolated bands of the insurgent garrison still were resisting, Franco's officers acknowledged. They said Salamanca headquarters considered the city, which had been spearhead of Franco's lower Aragon line, as lost.

Official insurgent spokesmen refused to confirm or deny government capture of the city. Insurgent officers, however, said reports indicated Franco would reestablish his line from Albarracin across the Teruel-Zaragoza highway about six miles north of Teruel.

Government troops fought their way across a ravine to attack the old Teruel fortress where the insurgent defenders made their last stand.

The major part of Teruel was in government hands after a battle last evening in which thousands of men were reported killed or wounded.

The government said its forces awaited only dawn to complete the occupation.

Gained Foothold.

The government's communiqué reported that the 13th Army Corps, advancing from the southeast, crossed "over and under" an aqueduct into the old quarter of the city, gaining a foothold for possibly the last struggle of the Teruel campaign.

The premature government report said occupation of Teruel was effected last evening, ending a siege that started last Wednesday.

(Dispatches from Valencia said Teruel fell when government attackers stormed and captured a building where the insurgent defenders made a last stand against ravotest charges.

(Madrid hailed the success at Teruel as the greatest in the 17 months old civil conflict. The last Teruel census showed 12,000 inhabitants but refugees were believed to have swelled the city to 20,000 or 25,000.

(The civilian population, the government said, emerged from subterranean hiding places and welcomed the government troops with "wild demonstrations of enthusiasm.")

The central point of the insurgent resistance was the five-story Commandancia (headquarters building) opposite an aqueduct, which spans the ravine to Las Cueva, a section of the city on the southeast.

The upper floors of the Commandancia were used for barracks for civil guardsmen and its cellars were connected with an elaborate system of underground tunnels through which messengers and supplies reached the Commandancia during government air attacks since the start of the war.

Leaders at Work Trying to Make Enough Attend Session for Final Action

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP)—Leaders worked behind the scenes today to assure the presence of sufficient lawmakers at a special session of the state legislature tomorrow to adopt a proposed amended administrative code for New York city.

A two-thirds vote of the members of each house, 100 in the assembly and 34 in the senate, will be required for approval.

"I am quite sure the code can be adopted now, if we have a sufficient number here," Republican Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck said. "We are taking steps to see that we have the necessary number."

Agreement on controversial points that blocked adoption of the proposed code at a special session last week, forcing adjournment until tomorrow, was announced in New York city yesterday after a meeting of the senate city affairs committee.

State Senator William J. Murray, Democrat, chairman of the committee, said the group agreed on a statement of intent. This will say that the purpose of the act is solely to codify and restate existing laws and statutes, except where changes are necessary to harmonize them with the new city charter, effective January 1.

The members from Ulster and Westchester counties are now satisfied that their interests are protected," Murray added, "and that in water supply matters, the city retains all its rights and the individual counties retain all theirs."

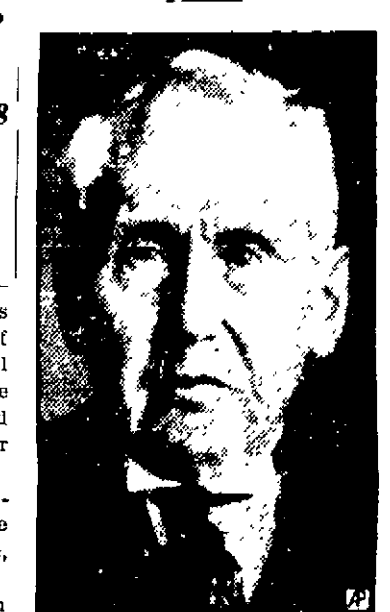

Ulster and Westchester representatives objected to a clause in the original draft, which they claimed would have exempted the New York city water supply source from taxation in their counties.

Leaders recessed the special session last week primarily to give members further time to study the 3,500-page document.

Many lawmakers denounced against immediate action, saying they had not had time to acquaint

Frank B. Kellogg Dies at St. Paul; Co-Author of Pact

FRANK B. KELLOGG

St. Paul, Dec. 22 (AP)—Minnesota and the nation mourned today the death of Frank B. Kellogg, son of pioneer parents who raised himself to the heights of world statesmanship.

The former secretary of state, diplomat and world court judge died last night on the eve of his 81st birthday anniversary. He was stricken with cerebral thrombosis early last month. His physician, Dr. J. A. Lepak, said bronchial pneumonia which developed last Saturday was the immediate cause of death.

With him at the end were Mrs. Kellogg, Dr. Lepak, household servants, and relatives. Besides Mrs. Kellogg, survivors include Mrs. Burnham Harris, and Mrs. Robert D. Clark, nieces, both of St. Paul; a sister, Mrs. Jean K. Austin and her daughter, Mrs. Seabury Stanton, both of New Bedford, Mass., and another niece, Mrs. John Bradshaw of Madison, N. J. Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg had no children.

During his long career in public life, Kellogg served as United States Senator from Minnesota, Ambassador to the Court of St. James, Secretary of State, and Judge of the World Court. He was named to the latter two posts by former President Calvin Coolidge.

Frank Billings Kellogg was born in Potsdam, N. Y., December 22, 1856, the son of Asa Farnsworth and Abigail Billings Kellogg. When he was 9, the family

County Firemen Continue Fight For Lower Rates

The lowering of fire insurance rates was one of the principal subjects discussed at the December meeting of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association in Marlborough on Tuesday evening, when the county firemen were the guests of the Marlborough fire department. Chief Joseph L. Murphy of the Kingston fire department, chairman of the special committee appointed by the association to work with the committee from the fire insurance agencies in the county in the campaign to have Ulster county granted a better rating reported on what steps had already been taken.

One of the reasons why the fire insurance rate in Ulster county is higher than in several of the other counties was due to the fact that some of the county fire departments have failed to file necessary information with the State Board of Fire Underwriters when they added new pieces of fire fighting equipment, and modernized their departments.

The two prime objectives for which the county firemen are fighting are the lowering of the insurance rates and the establishment of a central clearing house where there will be kept maps of the county showing the location of each fire department together with all data as to the kind and size of fire fighting equipment each unit has.

The idea back of this central bureau is that when a fire breaks out in a certain section of the county and it is necessary to call on outside fire companies for aid that the central bureau will know which fire department to assign and then to see to it that the adjoining fire department covers the town from which the equipment was sent to aid the other fire department in its fight.

Fire Chief Chris Noll of the Poughkeepsie fire department spoke on the danger of fire around the holiday season and urged that only fireproof cotton be used for decorating purposes about the house or in the display windows of stores. He also called attention to the dangers to children in handling electrical toys, and that the parents should see to it that when such toys are used that the wiring is of the best type and that the transformer used was one of standard make. Chief Noll said that many children were injured each year playing with electrical toys unless only the best equipment was used.

Chief Brown of the Newburgh fire department displayed nozzles that the department was using in that city to fight chimney fires. These nozzles had been specially designed.

Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served.

The next meeting will be held on January 13 in Rosendale, and the February meeting the county firemen will be the guests of the Central Hook & Ladder Company.

JUDGE CULLOTON RULED VENDING MACHINE LEGAL

Following a hearing before Judge Culloton in police court Tuesday, Thomas Brophy of Albany, arrested on a charge of possessing a slot machine, was discharged and the machine, which had been seized by the police, restored to him. Brady, through his attorney, Joseph Forman, contended that the machine was a legal vending machine and not a slot machine. The contention was upheld by the court.

Cigarette Consumption

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—The United States consumed 1,229,000,000 more cigarettes last month than in November a year ago. The Internal Revenue Bureau reported November consumption today as 12,786,000,000 compared to 11,557,000,000 in the corresponding 1936 month. Federal revenue derived from cigarettes totalled $38,562,000 last month against $34,673,000 in November, 1936.

President to Bid For Confidence in January Address

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—Administration advisers said today President Roosevelt would make an aggressive bid for public confidence in his January message to Congress, based on the contention the business recession is largely psychological.

They said the President would insist on his legislative program, but that he would propose no new "reforms." The message, they forecast, would contain a broad offer of cooperation with legitimate business, but no retreat from present regulations.

The Chief Executive laid the groundwork for this approach in his press conference yesterday by asserting that a psychology of fear was being fostered by a large percentage of newspapers and a small minority of public utilities.

His accusation followed a secret conference with seven of his most loyal supporters in senate liberal ranks, in which he was authoritatively reported to have pledged no slackening of New Deal activities.

While Mr. Roosevelt was resuming his conferences with utility executives, word spread that he had told his liberal confidantes he was standing firm for the administration's power and utility policies, and that he contemplated new efforts to obtain wage-hour legislation.

The list of those invited to the secret parley was regarded by observers as significant. It included Senators Norris (Ind.-Neb.), LaFollette (Prog.-Wis.), Schwelb (D.-Wash.), Minton (D.-Ind.), Pepper (D.-Fla.), Brown (D.-N. H.) and Green (D.-R. I.).

Gathering Data
Friends said the Chief Executive was gathering data to show the business slump was psychological rather than fundamental. This view had been expressed by several of the senators with whom he conferred.

This theme also was partially expounded in the President's press conference yesterday. He approached the subject by telling of his conference earlier in the day with Frank R. Phillips, president of the Duquesne Light Company of Pittsburgh and William H. Taylor, president of the Philadelphia Electric Company.

They had agreed, he said, that the federal government had not interfered with their industry in Philadelphia or Pittsburgh, but that fear was making it difficult for them to get money for needed expansions.

Status of Roosevelt's Special Sessions Plans

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—This was the status of President Roosevelt's legislative program at the end of the special congressional session:

Farm—Passed senate and house and sent to a conference committee.

Wage-hour—House returned it to labor committee, action which leaders described as tantamount to killing the bill. Government reorganization—Awaiting senate action.

Regional planning—Still under study by senate and house committees.

Anti-trust—No legislation introduced.

Housing—Passed senate and house and sent to a conference committee.

Tokyo Report Says Fliers Killed Two Soldiers, Despite Fact That They Waved Japanese Flags at Them.

ATTACK NEARS Nipponese Planes Fly Over Tsingtao — U. S. Warships Stand By to Aid Americans.

Tokyo, Dec. 22 (AP)—The foreign office, in what it called an "interim report" on sinking of the United States gunboat Panay by Japanese planes, declared today Japanese surface boats were machine-gunning Chinese at the time "and there might have been stray bullets flying toward the Panay" from these surface boats.

The report declared also that the Japanese fliers, who sank the gunboat in the Yangtze river above Nanking, also bombed Japanese troops and killed two soldiers despite the fact the troops waved ten Japanese flags.

"It has been reported that when the Panay was bombed army launches fired on the gunboat and also that Japanese soldiers boarded the Panay," the statement said.

"Japanese military authorities have done everything in their power to ascertain the facts regarding the incident. Unfortunately, various army units are scattered over a wide area and means of communication are inadequate so investigations have been delayed."

"Investigations still are progressing, conducted by military authorities on the spot in cooperation with a staff officer of imperial headquarters who was dispatched from Tokyo after the incident."

(The United States has sent two communications demanding apology and redress for bombing of the Panay and three Standard Oil vessels. Accounts by those aboard that Japanese troops, as well as the bombing planes, machine-gunned the ships in addition to the seriousness of the situation.)

Boarded Panay

The report continued: "So far it is established that Japanese soldiers boarded the Panay with friendly intentions, but no evidence was discovered showing the ship was the target of intentional shooting."

"At approximately 2 p. m. December 12, a certain unit of motor launches left Tsingtao for Fokow. In the course of the journey downstream, two launches, acting as scouts, met at a point below Tsingtao five steam vessels which they judged were being used by Chinese troops and accordingly returned to report the discovery to their main unit."

"On receipt of this report the entire unit landed on the right bank of the river. While watching they sighted Japanese naval aircraft bomb the above mentioned group of vessels. The distance between the ships and the army unit then was about 2,000 metres (about a mile)."

"The Japanese soldiers saw wounded from the first ship being carried toward the shore. Immediately after the second bombing a commander approached the ship and discovered it was American. Thereupon he immediately ordered his men to care for the wounded, who were carried to shore. Two Japanese commanders were discussing the situation when a third bomb dropped in the vicinity."

"The foreign office declined to say whether the 'interim report' would serve as a reply or as basis for a reply to American notes protesting the attack on the Panay."

Bombers Over Tsingtao

Shanghai, Dec. 22 (AP)—Japanese bombers, apparently on only a reconnaissance flight, roared over the industrial seaport of Tsingtao, where three United States warships stood by to evacuate the 300 Americans there if necessary.

United States consular authorities advised Americans to leave as fears increased that Japanese would attack the city in retaliation for destruction of Japanese cotton mills by Chinese troops. The Cruiser Marblehead, the Destroyer Pope and the Gunboat Sacramento were in the harbor.

Reports that 30,000 Japanese troops had left Shanghai for an unknown destination and that 30 transports were ready for additional troops gave impetus to fears that Tsingtao, as well as other of China's coastal cities, would be attacked.

United States authorities at Shanghai and Tokyo notified Japanese that a flag-decorated train carrying 300 foreign refugees, some of whom were Americans, would leave Hankow for Canton tomorrow.

Chinese set fire to dormitories connected with the cotton mills. Authorities repeated that they intended to resist Japanese to the utmost in case of an attack.

Arrest of 370 Reds Saved Japan from Revolution, Report

Tokyo, Dec. 22 (AP)—Police declared today their secret arrest of 370 suspected agitators had barred activities for a "general revolution based on Communism."

A member of parliament and several former university professors were held on suspicion of conspiring in Communist and Pacific movements. They were rounded up in a nationwide series of raids at dawn last Wednesday. "The main point of their movement apparently was to lead a general revolution based on Communism," the metropolitan police board said.

"Since the outbreak of the Chinese incident they have used every opportunity to spread anti-war propaganda throughout the nation."

"Therefore the authorities have been forced to arrest those who violated the peace preservation law, disrupted the private property system and sought to change the state structure."

Police declared three organizations—the Labor-Farmer party, the Proletarian party and the All Japan Council of Labor-Farmer unions—directed the alleged movements.

The Home Ministry immediately ordered dissolution of the three parties as disturbers of the peace. Police said they confiscated radical literature, documents and information on leftist movements throughout the world in a raid on their headquarters.

News reports by the Communist party in the United States, police asserted, were sent to Japan. They said seized documents showed a program of opposition to Fascism and war; cooperation in world-wide Social Democratic movements; instructions to shape campaigns to conditions in various nations, and employment of legal methods for fostering their activities wherever possible.

An effect of the last measure, they said, were proletarian demands for regular labor wages for soldiers in the Chinese campaign, attempts to force commodity prices up and efforts to influence Japan's international diplomacy.

Wisdom teeth, it seems, are one of nature's foolishnesses, benefiting nobody but the dentist who has to pull 'em out.

There are 500 turkeys on the ranch of Norman A. Frost near North Evans—and Frost, a chemical engineer, raised them all "by book." With no more knowledge of the subject than he had gleaned from a half dozen pamphlets and text books, Frost launched his turkey-raising enterprise last year. During the holiday season he disposed of 150 birds.

FOR YOUR CHRISTMAS FEAST

thrilling new flavor to your menu...

Every woman knows that a memorable meal doesn't "just happen." It calls for carefully prepared food... a menu planned so that every dish is delicious in itself, and blends with all the other dishes to make a perfect "symphony." And when you're preparing for this Christmas, if you want to put extra goodness into your holiday menu, try the magic of cream in the recipes printed below. And don't forget that pumpkin and mince pie, plum pudding and many other favorite desserts never taste so good as when they're covered with a thick, fluffy layer of real whipped cream.

CUT OUT THESE RECIPES AND SAVE THEM

CHESTNUT STUFFING

3 cups bread, crumbled
1/2 cup butter, melted
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper

2 tbsp. parsley, chopped
1/2 small onion, minced
3 tbsp. cream
1 lb. chestnuts

Mix ingredients in order given. Prepare chestnuts as follows: Drop them in boiling water for a few minutes to loosen shells. Remove shells and inner skin. Boil until tender. While still hot, rub them through coarse sieve.

MASHED POTATOES

1 tbsp. butter, melted
2 tbsp. cream
Salt and pepper

1/4 cup milk, scalded
6 medium-sized potatoes

When potatoes are cooked, remove skins and mash with fork or wire potato masher. When free from lumps add above quantities of butter, cream and milk to each pint of mashed potatoes. Beat until light and creamy.

STRING BEANS EN CREME

1 lb. string beans
2 tbsp. cream
Salt and pepper

Cut beans in short lengths and cook. When done, drain off water and pour on cream. Put cover on pan and shake beans up and down until they are covered with cream.

WINTER FUN IN ULSTER.

Spurred by last year's record influx of winter fun seekers, communities throughout Ulster county have improved and enlarged their winter sports attractions for what is expected to be the biggest winter sports season in history.

The New York Central will again run "snow trains," affording clerks, stenographers and others who pursue sedentary life six days a week in the metropolis opportunity for Sunday sallies in the mountains. Many places heretofore handicapped because of their distance from centers of population have found the barriers of accessibility removed by the "snow train." Transporting thousands every suitable week-end and Sunday, these trains have greatly aided the development of winter recreation in many areas. In addition well-plowed roads afford safe auto and bus transportation throughout the winter season. Ulster county has excellent conditions for skiing, skating and tobogganing and the program being arranged in the various communities should prove a great attraction.

Of all the winter sports attracting thousands this year, skiing has enjoyed the most phenomenal increase in the number of its devotees in Ulster county. This vogue for the snow sports reveals courage and stamina in a steam-heated and air-conditioned generation. It may even be one of the causes behind the astonishing return of sensible warm clothing for women and girls.

BUSINESS EXPANSION

The most quickly available fields for business expansion, to restore prosperity, says Gerard Swope, are first, public utilities; second, housing; and third, railroads.

Housing has been getting most of the publicity so far, and so has come to be the best understood. It is generally agreed now that there must be a big drive for new homes, both to house people and to make work; and that in order to succeed, there must be cheaper money, cheaper work per hour, cheaper materials, and perhaps some kind of government subsidy.

As for public utilities, meaning especially electric power developments, billions will probably appear as if by magic when the peace proffered by the government is made effective and federal competition is ended.

The railroads are the hardest problem. Higher rates will encourage them, but cannot be very effective until general business gains greatly in volume. This might be a good time to overhaul capital structure and physical plant, eliminate useless trackage, and put the whole system into such shape that it will fit effectively into the new business picture. That would take pitiless surgery and a lot of money, but could be done and would probably pay.

FLOOD PREPAREDNESS

Thoughts of the disastrous Ohio and Mississippi river floods of last January are aroused by the act of the commanding general of the Fifth Corps area. He has called representatives of the governors of Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia and Kentucky to an immediate flood relief conference. Discussions will center about cooperation of the regular army with state authorities in another such emergency as confronted them all a year ago.

It is hoped that there will not be floods of the same magnitude this winter, but there is no way of forecasting what nature has in store. The recent blizzard which left the city of Buffalo snowbound for several days, and devastating floods on the Pacific Coast, have already produced emergencies this winter. Others may follow. They cannot be prevented on short notice. Even partial prevention work calls for long years of planning and construction. But the immediate damage, suffering and loss of life a gigantic flood causes can be greatly lessened by foresight and advance preparations for organized rescue work.

WHAT JAPS FEAR.

Why are the Japanese government and people failing over themselves just now to reassure the American people and placate the United States government? It can hardly be from fear of war. Well-informed Japanese know that peace sentiment is very strong in this country, and it would take worse indignities than have yet occurred to start Uncle Sam on the warpath.

Trade is another thing. In that respect our people have been showing their resentment against Japanese militarism ever since the invasion of China. There have been several organized boycotts in progress, some directed against silk and others against Japanese products in general. Our government of course has taken no part in these.

The movement has strengthened greatly since the bombing of the American ships in the Yangtze River. A striking local example has been the bonfire in East Liverpool, O., in which merchants voluntarily burned 3200 boxes of Japanese merchandise. This kind of protest is effective because Japan depends on her export trade to provide funds for the conquest and development of China.

VARICOSE ULCERS.

Nobody likes to undergo any operation, small or large, and unless suffering intense pain, the average individual will put off operation to the last moment.

One condition that is a source of annoyance, interferes with getting about to any extent, and often means days or weeks in bed is the varicose ulcer of the leg.

These ulcers, although on the surface of the skin, are caused by sluggishness or stoppage of the circulation in the veins adjoining the ulcer. They are usually due to standing in the one position too long at a time—motormen, policemen, the housewife in the kitchen too much, overweight. Perhaps a little knock or blow on the leg, unnoticed by the individual is the starting point of the ulcer (a little break in the skin) because of the sluggishness of the veins underneath.

In the early stages of an ulcer, getting off the feet, injecting the surrounding veins so that deeper veins will carry on the work and perhaps bandaging the leg, may bring about a cure.

Unfortunately many of these ulcers become chronic and require operation.

Dr. Neal Owens, New Orleans, The New Orleans Medical and Surgical Journal says: "Probably every ulcer which is more than three inches in diameter should be repaired by the removal of the scar tissue, followed by skin grafting, if a permanent and satisfactory healing is to be obtained; a large percentage of these ulcers, if healed by other methods than the removal of the hard scar tissue around them, usually break down under the slightest strain."

If the hard scar tissue is not removed, the blood vessels cannot push through the scar tissue to hasten the healing.

After the scar tissue is removed by operation, the patient remains in bed for two weeks, the leg is kept under a heat tent, and continuous hot wet salt dressings are applied. The patient gradually gets sufficient circulation of blood into the grafts by raising and lowering the leg.

In small varicose ulcers therefore, rest, injecting the adjoining veins, and strapping the legs may be sufficient; in large chronic ulcers, the removal of the scar tissue not only brings about a cure but saves much time.

Dr. Barton's latest booklet, "Scourge," with reliable information regarding the two most dreaded social diseases, gonorrhea and syphilis, is now available. Know the facts, protect yourself, and save endless worry. Address your request to Dr. Barton, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, 247 West 43rd street, New York city, enclosing 10 cents for each copy to cover cost of service and handling.

DARE TO DREAM

BY ALICE MARIE DODGE

The Characters
 Nelda, a beautiful, courageous girl, is forced to run a lettuce farm to make her personal dreams come true.
 Bill, a tanned, young lettuce farmer, is a mystery to Nelda.
 Reck, blond, gay and wealthy, tells Nelda he has his top on her.
 Mrs. Reckless, Reck's cold and arrogant mother, dislikes Nelda.
 Leila, Nelda's selfish sister-in-law.

Chapter 14
So Much To Do

"I'll help you get ready for the company," Laura spoke up. Laura had earnestly tried to be helpful around the house since her marriage.

"Perhaps I could have them after all," Nelda mused. "They'd be here for lunch Saturday and would probably leave Sunday afternoon."

"Four meals—you'd have 'em for," Leila came and stood in the doorway between the kitchen and dining room. "Excuse me!"

"I can buy some chickens cheap from Tony," Nelda planned. "Maybe Mrs. Moresi will sell me some ravioli for Saturday's lunch."

... Then the chicken for Sunday. ... I can ask Ray and Doris over ... two tables of bridge."

"How about your brother and his wife?" Leila asked, her lips tight.

"You said you'd be busy. If you want to come—"

"I certainly will not come on a forced invitation!" Leila flounced into the kitchen.

Nelda let her go. From past experiences she knew it was impossible to smooth Leila down when she was ruffled like that.

In the next fifteen minutes Nelda wrote to Claire and to Reck. She hadn't seen Reck since she'd received the news of his illness a week ago. She hoped he'd be well enough by the end of the week to join her friends at the ranch.

It was a way, little note she sent him: "Nothing much to offer in the way of entertaining. I'll perhaps a walk to look at the baby lettuce. ... Walk! Ever hear of it?"

He accepted the invitation in person on Thursday.

"Why, you look fine!" Uncle Ham said as the young man, snappy and buoyant in a blue suit and dashing tie, leaped out of his car. "Thought you were sick."

"I was sicker than sin. But I'm the kind who makes a quick comeback," Reck replied. To Nelda he said, "Miss me?"

"Yes, I wanted to go to see you, but—" she halted. It was hard to tell him she hadn't called upon him because of his mother.

"Lijoi!" he cried. "Don't you know that flu's horribly contagious?" His eyes lighted so as he looked at her that her pulses raced.

It was thrilling to have a man like Reck interested in her.

"My lettuce is up," she told him happily. "Looks as if I'm going to have a wonderful crop."

"You shouldn't be grubbing around with dirt and vegetables," was his answer.

She bridled a bit. "I've got to do it in order to get back to school in the fall."

"Still got that in your head?" "You've got to have my sheepskin," she laughed. "Only one quarter to go before I graduate, you know."

Jealousy
 "WHAT did you do New Year's Eve?" he asked abruptly.

"The Powells invited me over for bridge."

"Who was the fourth?" The question shot from him.

"Bill Langdon."

"I was afraid of that!" Accusation looked out from his brown eyes. "Do you think it was nice of you to go skydiving to a party while I was laid up?"

His tone made her feel that she'd hurt him. She tried to find words to justify herself he went on:

"You know how much I think of you, don't you, Nelda?" "How much?"

"I wouldn't do that to you if you were sick."

She tried to think up a light answer to that and couldn't. She was silent for a moment, then she burst out: "Listen, Reck! Your mother doesn't like me!"

"What will she when she knows you better?"

"I really don't know where I stand with you."

"What do you mean?" he asked.

"I know your mother objects to me—as an associate for you. We may not have as much money as you have, but my family—"

"Come over on the Mayflower!" he hooted, his quick, brilliant smile flashing at her.

It was hard to make her point when he wouldn't take her seriously.

eat it before it is born and eat it after it is dead."

Common gas engine troubles are overhauling and loss of power, generally due to incorrect timing. Cornell bulletin 2-35 tells how to adjust the valve timing; single copies may be had from the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, New York.

Scattering bread crumbs on the window sill is doing a good deed for hungry birds, but providing suitable shelters is even more appreciated in winter.

Farm incomes and the price of milk fluctuate around the general price level, and the long-time outlook for a further rise in this level is favorable for dairymen, economists say.

Glad to hear that New York University students approve the Ten Commandments. And how do they stand on the Bill of Rights, iously. It ended with them talking about the week-end party she was planning.

"A party is right up my alley," he said. "I'll bring over some flowers Saturday morning. Loads of 'em in our hothouses."

"That'll be grand. There's nothing out in our garden at Langdon?" "You haven't invited Langdon?"

"Why—no. There would be no girl for him."

"He wouldn't fit in, anyway," Reck said carelessly, but his eyes were bright with exultation.

"Oh, you'd be surprised!" She was thinking of the Bill Langdon of New Year's Eve.

"How do you know?" Reck demanded suspiciously.

"On New Year's—" Reck made such an angry gesture that she decided swiftly, "He's not the least bit in love with me."

"Don't make me laugh!" The conversation ended on that note.

Flabbergasted
 ON FRIDAY Laura and Nelda cleaned the house thoroughly.

Uncle Ham helped some, an old pipe in his mouth that sent out odors of male contentment.

As Nelda surveyed the rooms she realized that she had created a certain beauty in them since coming here. The old adobe house had an air.

In the evening she made salad in individual molds, creating magic with red gelatin, bits of pineapple and cherries with nuts tucked in where the pits had been.

"That salad," she said as she placed the molds on a big platter, "certainly has personality."

"I'll say it has," Laura agreed, gazing at it with such a longing expression that Nelda made a mental note to find a hiding place for the tempting molds.

Laura's appetite never seemed to be satisfied. She was getting so fat she waddled when she walked.

"There's going to be plenty to do in the morning," Nelda remarked, her mind darting ahead to lunch, dinner and the refreshments to be served after bridge.

"We'll get up an hour or so earlier," Laura said.

But in the morning Laura didn't appear for breakfast. She sent word to Nelda by Uncle Ham that she had a misery in her back—maybe a floating kidney—and would Nelda send her in two poached eggs, some toast and jam and coffee in that large cup.

Nelda was flabbergasted for a moment. Then she decided she'd take on a job and that she'd have to finish.

Perhaps she could hire Maria Moresi to help her. Why hadn't she thought of Maria in the first place? Maria wasn't home and wouldn't be home until that night, Mrs. Moresi told Nelda.

"She out with that no good bum!" Mrs. Moresi spat out the words.

"Could—would you come, Mrs. Moresi?" "I'll pay you well."

"Not No!" the woman returned hastily. "Me, I no like to come. I make mistake in front of your friends."

Nelda felt a goodness in the region of her stomach. How could she possibly do all the work and entertain her guests, too?

"Would you make some ravioli for lunch, Mrs. Moresi?"

"Sure! Sure! I send it nice and hot by Manuel, the woman returned soothly as if to make up for her refusal to help at the ranch.

"Not No!" for that, Mrs. Moresi. Nelda started home, half running.

There was much to do. Beds to make. Rooms to dust. Vegetables to peel. Table to set. And any number of little odds and ends to be attended to. Her mother had to be bathed and dressed.

Nelda didn't see how she'd get a minute to give to her own attire before the guests arrived. She wanted to have everything ready for both lunch and dinner so she could have the afternoon free for her guests.

She had just finished with her mother when Reck arrived with an armful of flowers done up in waxed paper. Her face was red and her usually smooth hair in disorder. She hated to have him see her in such a state.

"Thought you might like to have these flowers early," he said.

"Not No!" she defended. "Well, I'll toddle along," he said cheerfully. "So I won't hinder you." He went out, humming a gay tune, then returned to say, "I'll be back around noon."

Nelda said angrily to herself, "He might have offered to help!" (Copyright, 1937, Alice Marie Dodge)

Woodstock Dance Group to Appear At State Dinner

Woodstock, Dec. 22.—Members of the Woodstock "Cheat and Swing" Club, organized recently to revive and popularize the square dance, have been invited as a feature attraction at the annual dinner of the New York State Horticultural Society at Albany on January 19. Governor Lehman will be the chief speaker of the evening. The group has been invited to dance by Ex-Assemblyman Millard Davis of Kerhonkson, president of the New York State Horticultural Society.

The "Cheat and Swing" Club, which meets weekly at the Woodstock Art Gallery grew out of a successful group organized in connection with the Woodstock sesquicentennial celebration. The group contributed to the launching of the Ister County Theatre Association whose premier presentations at Highland, Kingston and Bard College, have met with considerable success.

The "Cheat and Swing" Club was invited as the chief attraction of the annual dinner dance of the Ister County Theatre Association on December 14. There are several engagements in prospect.

MARCH, 1937: New Armament Levies And A School Disaster

By VOLTA TOHREY

The AP Feature Service
Third in A Series

Ah, passing few are they who speak. With, stormy month' in praise of thee . . . —BRYANT

March, 1937, brought the world's greatest school disaster to the world's biggest, richest rural school.

Ten minutes before dismissal time, the roof rose, the walls bulged, and the whole structure fell like the One Hoss Shay. Gas from the very oil fields which enabled New London, Tex., to have the biggest richest school blew it up, killing nearly 300 children.

But "the murder of the artists model" soon distracted America. Easter togethery pictures gave way to nearly nude photos of Veronica Godeon, one of three persons found slain in a Manhattan apartment.

Gas masks became fashionable abroad. Europe's naval fire department cruised around Spain to keep war sparks from flying. But in Spain, the fighting became fiercer. And everywhere else, governments picked up sticks.

Il Duce Goes A-Visiting.

America and Britain prepared to blow a half billion dollars apiece on naval arms. Premier Blum tried to dig a half billion out of peasants' hoards for France's defenses. And Japan's militarists rammed a $400,000,000 preparedness program down politicians' throats.

Mussolini ordered all men between 18 and 55 kept in training to fight, screamed for more babies, and toured Africa to get Moslems behind him.

Pope Plus Comments.

Inside Europe and inside Asia, frontiers were assailed. Nazis wanted "home rule" for Czechoslovakia's Germans. And between Russia's good-neighbor, Outer Mongolia, and Tokyo's toy, Manchukuo, Prince Teh Wang declared independence from China to bring forth a new nation called Mongokuo and dedicated to Japanese imperialism.

New York's Mayor LeGuardia and Berlin editors traded insults. Ernst "Putz" Hanfstaengl, Hitler's old pal and press chief, disappeared from Germany. And Pope Plus, recovering from his long illness, declared the Reich's "mad attempt . . . to confine within the boundaries of a single people within the blood stream of a single race. God the Creator of the world, the King and Lawgiver of all people."

"This Year's Kisses," blared American radios. And President Roosevelt cut in to urge a broad-minded Supreme Court, crying: "Here is one-third of the nation ill-nourished, ill-clad, ill-housed, now . . . I say we must act, now!"

Windsor Housing Problem.

Senators grilled notables pro and con. Justice McReynolds lectured on "good sportsmanship." Chief Justice Hughes warned that to increase judges would decrease efficiency. And Justice Roberts changed his mind, thereby reversing, 5 to 4, the court's 1936 invalidation of women's wage legislation.

CIO had only half the membership it was to boast by fall, but

Mussolini Travels South
Il Duce reviews his North African colonials.

It was his most embarrassing month. London newspapers called a Spanish loyalist victory an Italian defeat. And a girl held in France for shooting Count de Chambrun blabbed that she had had a love affair with the Duce.

A tire blow-out kept Amelia Earhart from going on into the South Seas and around the equator, after she had flown to Hawaii in 16 hours. The Lindberghs were seeing India. And the Duke of Windsor and a Baltimore belle were seeing friends' houses on the continent, separately, a-hope, a-hoping, while the world sang "There's Something in The Air."

Stamps

IN THE NEWS

By James B. Mather
"El Caudillo"

A man who is writing his name indelibly in Spain's history. General Francisco Franco, has been pictured for the first time on a stamp.

It is a 10-centimos sepiá adhesive issued by rightist-controlled Spanish Morocco as a semi-postal. This stamp is to mark the payment of a 10-centimos tax on all letters requiring 30 centimos or more postage which are carried by the interior service. Proceeds from the sale of these stamps are to aid wounded war veterans.

The design shows Franco's head, profile left, between panels of Moorish carving. Across the bottom appears the inscription, "Sobretarea obligatoria pro-militados Africa," repeated in Arabic. The military dictator of fascist Spain is 45, short, slight of build. His manner is calm, yet intense. In pre-civil war days, he was known as a clever military strategist, a hero of the Moroccan wars and an idol of the army. He was credited with swiftly crushing a red revolt in Catalonia and Asturias in 1934.

Born in Galicia, Franco entered the army at 15 and became the youngest brigadier-general in 1926. Today he is "El Caudillo" of fascist Spain.

It's "Charlotte Amalie" Now
The Virgin Islands stamp of the "territorial" series will go on sale December 15 at Charlotte Amalie (pronounced Charlotte A-may-ye), the capital, which has been called St. Thomas for years. This stamp incidentally marks the official restoration of the name which King Christian V of Denmark gave the settlement in 1672 in honor of his consort, Charlotte Amalie.

The United States bought these islands from Denmark in 1917 for $25,000,000. Columbus named the group when he paused there in 1493.

The new stamp will show Charlotte Amalie harbor.

A Swastika For Danzig
The Danzig village at the Magdeburg fair is publicized on two new stamps from Danzig.

State. The 25-pennig stamp shows a view of the village with the Danzig coat of arms above and a large swastika (with Swastika) floating in the foreground.

The 40-pennig stamp shows the Magdeburg fair, with a swastika above the village rooftops, with a radiant sun behind.

Magdeburg is a German city of 300,000 on the Elbe.

Present for Mother
Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP).—George Thirle, 18, may have spent the last four months in a plaster cast but he's going to give his mother a Christmas present. And, what's more, he made it.

The youth, an infantile paralysis victim, while away dragging heavy making articles of leather and weaving light woolen blankets. One of the blankets was to his mother Christmas morning, he said.

On the Radio Day by Day

Time to Eastern Standard.

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—For the last of its current season of broadcasts the Sunday symphony of WJZ-NBC this week-end has arranged an all-request program. Soloists are to be Armando Palacios, young South American concert pianist; Mihai Plastro, concert violinist; Helen Jepson and Donald Dickson. This broadcast is signing off earlier this year than has been the rule in the last several seasons.

County Forced to Buy 392 Parces at Tax Sale Monday

County Treasurer Pratt Boice found that the market for tax sale properties was unusually "dead" when he offered for sale at the court house Monday Ulster county properties in arrears for tax payments.

Out of a total of 643 properties sold, only about 40 per cent—251 to be exact—were bid in by private parties. At the sale a year ago about 70 per cent of the properties offered were bid in by private persons or outside corporations seeking them as investment. At that sale one corporation, the Municipal Corporation, of New York, bid in 126 of the properties offered. There was no such bidding at the sale this year and out of the 643 properties put on for sale the county was forced to bid in 392 of them. A number of these will undoubtedly be taken off the county's hands later, either by the present owners or by people seeking them as an investment.

The parcels sold Monday were located as follows, by towns:

THE REV. CHARLES RIZZO DEPARTS FOR NEW YORK

Highland, Dec. 22—The Rev. Charles Rizzo, assistant priest at St. Augustine Church for the past two and a half years, has been transferred to a charge in New York and left Saturday to assume his duties there. Father Rizzo had become very popular among the young people of the parish who regret his being transferred.

Village Notes

Highland, Dec. 22—Miss Emily Lent, a senior at Vassar College, is at her home for the holiday vacation.

A large audience enjoyed the pageant presented at the vesper service in the Presbyterian Church Sunday afternoon. The choir was led from view by the screen of greens, and the story of the Nativity was beautifully enacted by young people. Miss Shirley Hubbard was the reader, and the lighting produced very effectively the travelers, the wise men, Joseph and Mary, Miriam, Sarah and the group of primary children that came to worship the babe in the manger. The large polonaise plant was in memory of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Koonz. George May was elected president of the Holy Name society at its last meeting, and succeeds Francis Gaffney, Sr.; Theodore Maroldt, vice president; Augustus Ciacio, was re-elected secretary; Louis Gruner, Sr., treasurer; Joseph Skipp, corresponding secretary. The installation will take place at the January meeting.

The Past Grand Association of Ulster county met recently in the lodge room of Sunshin Lodge, 329 I. O. O. F., when Nicholas Rodde of Saugerties, a member of Arties lodge of Kingston, was elected president of the Association; Frank Miller of Modena, and a member of U. S. Grant lodge of Gardiner is vice president; Everett Hannay, district deputy of Saugerties, second vice president; Harvey Tompkins, who held the office for two years was the retiring president. At the close of the meeting cards and refreshments were enjoyed by 45 guests.

Mrs. Richard Dowd is a patient in the Benedictine Hospital in Kingston, where she was to undergo an operation Monday. Miss Amelia Down, a freshman at State College, reached her home on Saturday for the holiday vacation.

The Rev. and Mrs. S. A. MacCormac attended the meeting of the Ramapo Ministerial Association held in the Methodist Church in Milton last week. The Rev. Arthur Gould Bellave; the Rev. W. G. Gebbard, Chester and the Rev. George H. Birney, Pine Bush, were received as members.

The Rev. Forest Edwards is president of the association. The Rev. Walter H. Scranton, Grace Church, Newburgh, was the speaker on "Seeing It Through." Mr. Gebbard reviewed the book, "A Man in Christ." The January meeting will be held in Monroe. Others present were: The Rev. and Mrs. George Baker, Stone Ridge; the Rev. and Mrs. Arvid Lakeberg, Montgomery; the Rev. and Mrs. Raymond Dikeman, Mrs. Van Keuren, Harriman; the Rev. and Mrs. E. G. Wahl, Goshen; the Rev. and Mrs. J. William Taylor, Vails Gate; Mrs. Georgia Schultz, New York; Mrs. Walter H. Scranton, Newburgh; the Rev. E. C. Laue, Bloomingburgh; the Rev. M. O. Bennett, Cornwall; the Rev. W. H. Quinn, Sloansburg; the Rev. Gilbert Fisher, Walden; the Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Northrop, Milton.

Charles L. DuBois, president of the First National Bank, has donated the official handbooks to be used by the Highland Boy Scouts, and every boy registered as a member may get his book by calling at the bank. There are twenty boys now members and four new boys received at the last meeting add enough to form the third patrol.

The new officers of Brainard Howell Council, United American Mechanics, were installed last week by William Pomeroy of Rifton, state councillor deputy of the order. The hall was filled to capacity with members and guests. The new officers are: Councillor, George Gussalus; vice councillor, Christopher Domman; recording secretary, Daniel Kurtz; financial secretary, George Cornell; treasurer, Fred Palmer; warden, Isaac Cummings; conductor, Edward Tubbs; inside sentinel, Harry W. Maynard. The refreshment committee was Fred Palmer, George Cornell, D. H. Kurtz. Guests from Kingston, Rosendale, Saugerties and Rifton were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Lounsbury of Monok Lake spent the week-end with the latter's mother, Mrs. Katherine Hacksteiner.

Chapter A. P. E. O., met with Mrs. G. H. Mackey on Thursday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Olof Sundstrom, presiding. Tea was served at the close of the meeting from a beautifully decorated table graced by a white tree with the blue accessories. Present were: Mrs. James R. Clarke, Miss Lula Clarke, Mrs. Sundstrom, Mrs. Marian Howell, who had charge of the program. Mrs. A. Jerome Pratt, Mrs. De Witt DuBois, Mrs. George W. Pratt, Mrs. Irving Rathgeb, Mrs. A. W. Lent, Mrs. Nathan Williams, Mrs. D. S. Haynes, Mrs. LeGrand Haviland, Jr., Mrs. Mabel Hasbrouck, Mrs. Harry Colyer, Mrs. Clarence Rathgeb, Mrs. Ernestine Weger, Mrs. Robert Cole, Mrs. Walter R. Seaman, Miss Laura Harcourt, Mrs. Nancy Weyant, Mrs. Gordon Wilcox, Mrs. Mabel Hasbrouck and Mrs. Mackey.

City Home to Be Renovated; to Add 11 Rooms in Attic

For some time additional bedroom space has been required at the City Home on Flatbush avenue, and a project to turn the large and unused attic in the building into bedrooms has been approved as a WPA project, and work will shortly be started. It is planned to turn the attic into 11 bedrooms, and to make changes in the heating equipment, so that the rooms can be serviced.

The building is being repainted both inside and out now as a WPA project, and it is planned to construct a new rear room for the women inmates in the City Home.

With the construction of the new sanitary sewer in Flatbush avenue it is also planned to connect the City Home with this new sewer, and discontinue the use of a septic tank.

The roof of the building also will be repaired. This project will keep a number of men at work during the winter months.

IT IS MISS SOPHIE NOT DOROTHY BASCH

Through an unavoidable error it was stated in Tuesday's Freeman that Miss Dorothy Basch of 61 Ann street had successfully passed the recent civil service examination for clerk in the high school. It should have read Miss Sophie Basch, and not Miss Dorothy Basch. Miss Sophie Basch's name was one of the three submitted to the education board.

S. S. Hoover Broadside. Shanghai, Dec. 22 (AP).—The liner President Hoover, badly damaged in a storm December 19, was reported lying broadside to a reef off Hanghai island, near Formosa. Underwriting representatives were aboard making a survey to determine salvage possibilities.

George E. Akerson Dies. New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—George Edward Akerson, 48, secretary to former President Herbert Hoover from 1928 to 1931, died last night at the Hospital of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research. He had been a patient at the hospital since mid-November.

Frank B. Kellogg Dies At St. Paul

migrated to Minnesota and with only rural schooling as a foundation, he started to study law at the age of 19 in the office of a Rochester attorney, who paid him for combination clerical and janitor work by guiding his studies.

In 1877 Kellogg was admitted to the bar. The next year he was elected city attorney of Rochester. In 1880 he formed a partnership with Burt W. Eaton, but clients were few and the firm went into politics. The two ran for the office of district attorney in 1881. Kellogg as a Republican and Eaton as a Democrat, because the salary of $300 a year was needed for the firm. Kellogg won.

On October 1, 1887, he moved to St. Paul, forming Davis, Kellogg and Severance in partnership with Cushman K. Davis, then United States senator, and Cornelio A. Severance. When Davis died in 1900, Kellogg became senior partner.

They achieved a reputation as corporation lawyers, yet Kellogg was picked by President Theodore Roosevelt for some of his administration's most famous "trust busting". The first case was against the Western Paper company, commonly called the "western paper trust". Kellogg, as special counsel for the government, won a decree of dissolution against the corporation at St. Paul in June, 1906.

Then he was picked for similar work against the Standard Oil company. This case came to a head before the United States circuit of appeals at St. Louis on November 15, 1906, and again Kellogg won a decision that the nation-wide corporation then existing was acting in restraint of trade. Its dissolution into companies chartered in New Jersey, Kentucky, Indiana and California followed.

In 1907 Kellogg ferreted out the methods of high finance which Edward H. Harriman, head of the Union Pacific and allied lines, used in putting over a deal for the Chicago and Alton railway. This work eventuated in dissolution of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger. Kellogg also had a hand in anti-trust proceedings against the International Harvester company and what was known as "the tobacco trust".

The British royal state coach used at the coronation and other ceremonials was completed in 1761.

Unlucky Ship's Captain

Capt. Joseph Lee (above) a naval officer during the World War, was master of the United States liner City of Hamburg, reported in distress in the North Sea after a collision.

Poultrymen can look forward to a better year in 1938 mainly because of the lower feed prices and fewer hens in the state. Considerable improvement, compared with 1937, in the outlook for chickens and eggs is noted by economists at the New York state college of agriculture. On the unfavorable side, the current recession in business and uncertainty of demand darken the picture.

DIED

Memorial

In sad and loving memory of George Schellman, who died two years ago today, December 22, 1935.

A precious one from us has gone, A voice we loved is stilled, A place is vacant in our home Which never can be filled. God in His wisdom has recalled The boon His love had given, And though his body slumbers here The soul is safe in heaven. (Signed) Wife, Mother, Father and Sister.

Japanese Report Possible Accident

After describing their version of the role played by the Japanese army in the Japanese attacks December 12 on the United States gunboat Panay and three Standard Oil vessels, Japanese officials said that henceforth statements on the incident would be issued only at Tokyo.

The army, navy and embassy spokesmen said army general headquarters still was conducting an investigation, but that findings would be disclosed at the Japanese capital.

Aid from Russia. There were persistent Chinese press reports of impending aid for China from Soviet Russia.

In Hankow, one of the three Chinese temporary capitals, newspapers published outer Mongolia dispatches saying the Soviet-influenced government there had decided to assist China because Japanese operations in inner Mongolia menaced Soviet interests.

The only trouble about having a holiday the day after Christmas is that it will hold up the exchange-bonds a day longer.

Just One Reservation
No matter what Santa brings I'll be a good scout.

If he don't start to fling Those red neckties about

A young man whose family consists of his parents and five grown brothers tells this tale: "One night we were at the supper table and there was an electrical storm. There was one piece of meat on the platter, when suddenly after a loud clap of thunder, the lights went out. Well, sir, I got the meat—but I had six fork prints in my hand when the lights came back on."

A man called upon his medical adviser and said: "Patient—Doctor, I can't get to sleep at night."
Doctor—Insomnia, eh?
Patient—That's it.
Doctor—There are ways and means of combating that. You think you are hopelessly wakeful, but mental effort has a great deal to do with getting you to sleep. Just imagine you are walking a tight rope a thousand feet from the ground. Step by step you advance on this tight rope.
Patient—Yes?
Doctor—You'll soon drop off.

Read it or not—The people of this country spend over $10,000,000 every year for Christmas trees, and two to four million trees are imported from Canada annually for Christmas decorations.

Christmas!
No other day throughout the year Holds such a wealth of friendly cheer,
No other day can bring to mind Such thoughts of love, for all mankind.
The Christmas spirit seems to glow A light that shines, o'er land and sea,
May its bright rays bring joy to-day— In all you think, or do, or say.

During dinner one day recently a father spoke to his son: Father—Sonny, I want to talk to you after dinner. I want to discuss with you the facts of life. So after dinner when they went into the other room, the son quietly closed the door behind him and said:
Son—Well, Dad, what is it you would like to know?

The customer is always right—until his bill becomes overdue.

Mildred—Aren't you getting Hal and Jerry confused?
Dorothy—Yes, I get Hal confused one night and Jerry the next.

Mr. Miss;
Meet, kiss,
More kisses;
Mr. Mrs.

C-H-R-I-S-T-M-A-S-I-!

Christmas can be spelled by pine trees
Praying softly on a hill,
Or by slender candles blooming
Crimson on a window-sill.
Christmas can be spelled by star-light
Flashing gold through frosty air;
Christmas can be spelled by faces
Lifted high in praise or prayer!

Think of others as if you were the . . . others.

MILTON

Milton, Dec. 21—Mrs. Birdsell S. Taber and Mrs. Fred Bond were in Kingston Tuesday attending a Home Bureau meeting for project leaders, executive committee and committees on long time program.

A meeting of the Methodist Sunday school board was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wood Tuesday evening. Plans were made to entertain the children of the Sunday school by attending a matinee, returning to the church for refreshments December 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Clarke entertained several guests at dinner and cards Wednesday evening.

On Friday, December 10, a daughter, Marilyn Herriet, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tur, Jr., of Lloyd, at Kingston Hospital. Mrs. Walter was formerly Maude Lawton of Milton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lawton.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Rhoades celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Tuesday, December 14, when they entertained 25 guests at dinner in their home. Among the guests was Mrs. Rhoades' maid of honor, Miss Carrie Covert of Marlborough. The color scheme was yellow and gold. The wedding cake was artistically decorated, with a miniature bride and groom, which was loaned by Miss Loretta Spratt. There were many beautiful flowers and useful gifts besides cards and telegrams of congratulations from their many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Rhoades were married in Marlborough December 14, 1887, by the Rev. S. F. White, pastor of the Methodist Church. Mrs. Rhoades was formerly Miss Cora E. Smith, daughter of David and Helen Smith of Marlborough. Mr. Rhoades is a son of the late Cornelius and Mary Rhoades of Milton. With the exception of a few years they have made their home in Milton.

Father Charles Rizzo received official word that he is to be transferred to New York city, where he will begin a new parish. Father Rizzo has completed his assignment as assistant to Father Gregory Mullen, rector of the Milton and Highland Churches, St. James and St. Augustine's. The new assignment has been arranged by His Eminence Cardinal Hayes, archbishop of New York city. Father Rizzo's new assignment begins immediately and he will leave the early part of this week. He was ordained in 1927 in New York city and had several years' work there previous to his engagement in Highland. Father Rizzo has completed two and one-half years of service here at Milton and was much respected by all who knew him.

School classes will close at three o'clock this afternoon for the Christmas holiday vacation. On Wednesday morning the Junior Senior high school will present a Christmas program to which parents and friends of the pupils are invited. In the afternoon at 1 o'clock the intermediate grades will present their program. Classes will resume on Monday morning, January 3, at the regular hour.

The Mountain View buses do not pass through Milton village. Anyone wishing to take a bus should get it from Young's Auto Service conducted by Edward Young, Jr., or else have along 9-W the buses stop anywhere.

The December meeting of the local W. C. T. U. held Friday at the home of Mrs. Fred Bond was well attended. An entertaining program on "Peace" was presented by Mrs. Frank Wood. There was an exchange of gifts and also gifts for the children of the Orthopedic Hospital in West Haverstraw. Mrs. Mary Taber gave an interesting account of a recent personal visit at the hospital. Mrs. Oliver Kent was assisting hostess. The January meeting will be held at the home of Miss Mary Taber and Mrs. William Lais.

The Central School Board has voted to allow $600 more to the Diamond D Bus Line for school bus service. The allowance however is subject to the approval of district voters at their annual meeting next July. If the people vote to pay the $600 it will be paid. If they do not it will not.

J. A. Hepworth, president of the First National Bank of Marlborough, is confined to his home by illness. Mr. Hepworth was a former resident and farmer of Milton. His wife died last April.

The school children will meet at the Community Center on the evening of December 23 at 7:30 sharp to sing in the Christmas season. This is the fourth year that young and old of this village have joined in the jubiliant chorus which through the centuries has swelled the universe expressing the hope and thankfulness of people sometimes weary of this world's heavy problems. As in the past three years the Milton Choral Club has prepared as its contribution to this neighborhood gathering a most interesting program of some rather unusual and not so well known carols from other lands. The group will be under the direction of J. Collins Lingo, music supervisor in the Central School system. The following is the program to be presented: Adagio Fideles, reading community, God Rest You Merry Gentlemen (English). The Stars Are Shining, Bohemian carol; Minstrel's Carol, Choral Club; It Came Upon the Midnight Clear, Willis 1850 community. The Shepherd's song, A Spray Arose to Glory, Ring Out Ye Bells, Choral Club, O Little Town of Bethlehem, community, The First Nowell Double Quartet, O Holy Night, Christmas Bells, Russian carol, Gloria, Old French carol, Choral Club, Bark the Herald Angels Sing, Mendelssohn Community. Let us all come to the village school Thursday evening. The lights will be bright and the Christmas spirit will prevail.

SANTA WHITE FOX

THE FOX POUNCED PAST THEM INTO A BIG SNOW DRIFT

The Story So Far: Two dolls, a sailor and Helga, are rushing back in an ice-boat to the den of the white fox to rescue a tiny squirrel. The sailor has just rescued Helga from the fox.

Chapter 21

Caught Again
The moon was wrapping a big gray cloud around his shoulders when the sailor and Helga skimmed back in their ice-boat to the fox's den. They had to return to save the tiny squirrel that had promised to wait for them in a holly bush.

They tier their boat to an icicle and crept quietly to the foot of the fox's mountain. Just as they approached the holly bush they heard a squeaky whisper saying, "Here, here I am. Thank goodness you came." The fox has been out looking all around for me.

There was the tiny squirrel! He took a flying leap and landed on the sailor's hand.
"What is the fox doing?" Helga asked the squirrel.
"Oh, he's just finished breaking up all the furniture in there," said the squirrel. He's so mad he can't sit down."

SHANDAKEN
Shandaken, Dec. 22—Christmas exercises will be held in the M. E. Church on Thursday evening beginning at 7:30.
Mr. and Mrs. Ward Hummel and son, Charles, and daughter, Margaret, will spend Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. William Blakeslee, Arkville.
The district school will close for the holidays on Friday, and open again on Monday, January 3.

3. Burroughs Blakeslee, the principal, will spend Christmas at home, Arkville. Miss Anna Risley, primary teacher, will spend Christmas at home at Allaben. Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wood will spend the holidays with relatives in Jersey City.
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snyder of Arkville, formerly residents of this place, called on Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Benson on Sunday.
Mr. and Mrs. Harold Eignor and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Lasher of Big Indian, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Townsend on Thursday night.

Carl Townsend, who has been employed at Philadelphia for some time, is home for the holidays.

Christmas Exercises
The Christmas exercises of the Lister Park Sunday School will be held on the evening of December 23 at 7:30 in the brick church. The children have arranged a fine program and it is hoped that a large number will be present to see the children perform.

Broadway: "Danger, Love at Work". A man and a maid in love serves as the basis for this hilarious farce that takes them from one situation into another with all of the situations humorous or gaily exciting. Here is a play that was created for sheer comedy effect and it manages to stay that way from start to finish. Jack Haley and Ann Sothern handling the leads with apparent enjoyment, the work of the featured players is also valuable and engaging. In fact Mary Boland, Edward Everett Horton and Walter Catlett put on a show of their own and almost steal the honors away from the stars of the production. Here is a romantic comedy attraction that is both humorous and well acted.

Kingston: "The Barrier" and "Breakfast for Two." One of Rex Beach's lesser novels takes on new life in this story of greed that concerns the days of the gold rush. The settings in this film are effective and a good cast works hard to make the production a worthy one. James Ellison, Otto Kruger, Leo Carrillo and Jean Parker are featured. "Breakfast for Two" is the other half of the double feature bill, a sophisticated romantic number with Herbert Marshall and Barbara Stanwyck. Orpheum: "Banjo On My Knee". A love lyric of the deep south that has to do with a boy who marries a girl and then leaves her is offered at the Orpheum in this story of simple people who ask little from life and receive little. This is an appealing picture for it has a homey humor, rapid action and a love story that seems to ring true from beginning to end. Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea are the players.

Tomorrow

Broadway: Same. Kingston: Same. Orpheum: "Make a Wish" and "Tough to Handle." A sentimental bit of plot and melody makes up the best of the Orpheum features in a story of a small boy who wins his way into the hearts of people because of his ability to sing. This production stars Bobby Breen, ace of the juvenile songsters and the play is recommended to all those who enjoy Master Breen as a soloist. "Tough to Handle" is the second part of the double feature program and this film features Frankie Darro.

To Apportion Funds Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—The Bureau of Public Roads went ahead today with arrangements to apportion $214,000,000 to states for highway improvements—a grant President Roosevelt recommended that Congress withdraw in the interests of a balanced budget. Adjournment of the special session without action on the President's recommendation left no other course. Existing law requires that the allotment be made by January 1.

Snap out of it. The more pep you have the better you feel and the happier you are.

COUNTY Christian Endeavor NEWS

Annual Banquet

The annual banquet sponsored by the county union will be held at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church on February 4. Miss Dora Pratt is general chairman. Henry P. Eighmey and Nelson H. Lewis are assistants.

County Service

The first in a series of devotional services sponsored by the county union will occur on January 30 at the Reformed Church of the Comforter, this city. Members and friends of Christian Endeavor are cordially invited. Complete arrangements will be announced.

Bethany Pageant

The Bethany Chapel group will present the pageant, "The Enchanted Candle," on Christmas Eve in the chapel at the head of North Front street. A party will be held Wednesday evening, December 29, with the members of the Ponckhockie group invited.

Mathus Meeting

The Mathus Endeavorers, under the leadership of Little Pearson, held a Christmas meeting Sunday evening. The group gathered around a Christmas tree, sang carols, and discussed the meaning of the Christmas spirit. Sunday's meeting will be eliminated due to a special Christmas church service.

Zena Christmas Service

A Christmas song service entitled "One With God the Father," will be presented by the Zena Christian Endeavor Society at the Reformed Church on Christmas night, December 25.

Comforter Activities

The members of the Comforter Society are busy engaged in the preparation of a Christmas pageant, "Three Great Joys," to be presented Sunday evening, December 26, in the church auditorium. About 25 characters are portrayed in this pageant which combines the Christmas spirit of the past and present. The annual Christmas basket for a needy family will be given this year, with Marion Schwenk and Helen Lowe in charge of the work. Sunday evening's service was in charge of Vivian Millham and Ruth Hudler. The topic, "The Night Christmas Spirit" was discussed and carols were sung, with the meeting room illuminated by candlelight.

First Dutch Program

The members of the First Dutch Society will travel about the city on Christmas Eve singing Christmas carols, and will then proceed to the church parsonage where the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur E. Oudemool will be hosts at a yuletide party Sunday evening; the society will present the annual Christmas play, "Little Brother of the Blessed," under the direction of Mrs. A. E. Oudemool.

$400,000 for Holly Salisbury, Md., Dec. 22 (AP)—Holly harvesters of the Delmarva Peninsula counted an estimated $400,000 return today from Christmas wreaths they supplied to brighten the nation's windows. Old-timers regarded the fine crops as a forecast of a hard winter.

The Sydney, Australia, police department has introduced a new parking system in the downtown section of the city. It is called "alternate-day" and permits cars to park for 20 minutes on the odd-numbered side of the street on odd days of the month, and on even numbers side on the even date.

President Sends Greetings to Scouts

President Roosevelt who has been active in the Boy Scout movement for the last 16 years, and during his administration as president he acted as honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America, has sent this Christmas message to the Scout Scouts and friends of Scouting.

"Members in the Boy Scouts is one of the most important ways in which a boy may develop desirable traits of initiative and responsibility. The Boy Scout practices citizenship and acquires valuable information in an interesting way—in a way that combines fun and enthusiasm for worthwhile work. At this Christmas season I want to extend to the Boy Scouts of America and to the individual members of that organization throughout the United States congratulations on the completion of another splendid year of work and best wishes for continuance of their success during the New Year."

Target Practice.

Blair, Neb.—Police Chief Victor Johnson wants to know if this is Christmas week or Halloween.

Light Commissioner Harry Morris, spying a pigeon on the city hall roof, hanged away with a gun. The pigeon didn't budge, despite Morris' expert aim.

Morris called Johnson, who fired and scored a direct hit. The pigeon fell with a mighty thud. It had been frozen stiff apparently for about a week.

HERE COMES SANTA!—Or, The Inside Story Of A Great Idea

1. Here's how a publicity man brings Santa to town. First he fastens Santa's pouch—towsels and paper.

2. This isn't a romantic view of Santa—it just shows him getting his feet wet. What's he doing in the water? The movie men wondered about that too. Wait a minute.

3. Why, Santa's aquaplaning to town. That seems to be just the right thing for him to be doing, for the scene is Florida. What can the old man be up to next?

4. The publicity man (he really works pretty hard) is coaching the girls. Girls? Oh, publicity men can always find some work for girls.

5. And finally—five hours after that punch was fixed up—Santa's welcomed to town. What town? That's the publicity man's big pull: Miami Beach.

ARDONIA

Ardonia, Dec. 22.—The Christmas program will be presented in Memorial Hall, at 7:30 o'clock, Monday, December 27.

Local members of the Home Bureau attended the meeting in Modena last week.

William Palmer attended the social dance at Plattkill Grange Hall Friday evening.

W. E. Harcourt is ill at his home in this place.

Mrs. Eber Palmer, the Misses Helen and Marion Palmer, Charles Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Eber Coy were shoppers in Newburgh Saturday.

Miss Emma Palmer entertained the following guests on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Lowery of Newburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Lozier and Mrs. Frank Lozier of Savitlon, Rulieoff Ward and daughter, Beatrice, of Modena.

First-class mail matter will be carried between Tasmania, Australia's island state, and the mainland by air without surcharge. This has just been announced by Prime Minister Lyons.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

New Haven, Conn.—Social scientists cannot predict how high man must rise before he gets above racketeering, but they can look along his back-trail and see this trail starting right at the bottom.

An example in real life of today is found in the hill tribes of South India by Dr. David G. Mandel-baum of sales department of anthropology. He unraveled the economic system of four tribes, who have divided the work.

One, the Todas, furnishes butter and buffaloes. Another, the Kotas, makes knives, bows, some other tools and play musical instruments. A third, the Badagas, own land and do the farming. The fourth tribe does the racketeering. It is the Kurumbas, jungle dwellers, who proclaim themselves sorcerers and levy a heavy toll on the other three tribes.

All the other tribes pay the Kurumbas for protection against disease, and when they get sick pay for still more protection and when they die, pay again because the Kurumbas was so brave in defending them against the fatal magic.

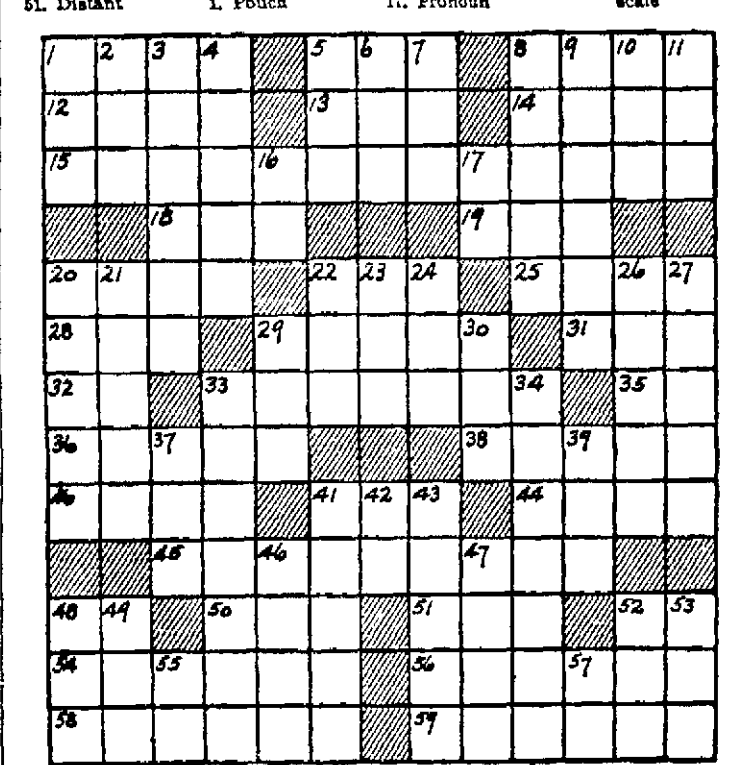

Asbland, O. college students now can enjoy winter sports and have them count as credit toward graduation. The plan was devised by Prof. George H. Donges, director of physical education, in the belief that lack of training has been responsible for many accidents in hunting, fishing, skating, skiing and hiking.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ho-Hum.
Pittsburgh—There's a bedroom atmosphere in night court where Magistrate Anthony Lucas is presiding in pajamas.

Police said they wanted a magistrate immediately available at all hours during the Christmas season crusade against drunken drivers.

So Lucas moved a bed into a downtown police station and retires between hearings.

Surprise.
Richmond, Va.—M. E. Bristow,

Virginia commissioner of insurance and banking, was puzzled by a telegram addressing him as president of the National Association of Building and Loan Supervisors.

He wired the association for an explanation.

He had been elected president two months ago at a Los Angeles convention which he did not attend.

Some Downy.
Des Moines, Iowa—German brides, Mrs. Henry H. Gurau, 21, said through an interpreter, furnish their husband's homes.

That, she asserted, was why a huge 18,000 pound box was rolled up to her new home here. It contained $6,000 worth of household furnishings she brought to her new husband, a Des Moines eye specialist. Shipping costs from Germany by boat and rail totaled $1,000.

The Christmas message of King George VI to his far-flung empire will be heard over the combined Blue and Red Networks of the National Broadcasting Company on Christmas Day, December 25.

King George will begin speaking at approximately 10:00 a. m. EST, from his castle at Sandringham, just outside London.

Workers Can Draw Lump Sum and Remain on Job

Employees who reach the age of 65 do not have to retire to receive lump-sum payments under the Social Security Act. This announcement was made today by John Form, manager of old-age insurance bureau office in the Opera House building, 277 Fair street.

"Just as soon as an employee who has worked in an occupation covered by the old-age portion of the social security act reaches the age of 65 years, he is entitled to a lump-sum payment," Mr. Form said.

"Retirement is not necessary in order to obtain this payment. The man or woman may go right on working, but he ceases to contribute under the old-age insurance plan. Neither the employee nor the employer contribute for the old-age insurance after a worker reaches the age of 65," Mr. Form added.

"Employees who reach the age of 65 years should immediately file a claim for a lump-sum payment," Mr. Form stated. "They will receive a check for an amount equal to 3 1/2 per cent of the total wages they have earned from covered employment after 1936. Widows or other heirs of persons who have died after having been similarly employed may also file claims for like lump-sum payments, Mr. Form said. Field officers will supply necessary forms and assistance to applicants.

Mr. Form reported that so far this year more than 5,600 claims for lump-sum payments have been filed in New York state. The Kingston office has filed 200 claims. All claims in the counties of Ulster, Dutchess and Putnam should be filed with the Kingston office, it was stated.

Parent-Teacher Association

Mt. Marion.

Mt. Marion, Dec. 22.—Mt. Marion P. T. A. held its December meeting on Tuesday evening, December 14, in the church hall, with 30 present. After a brief business meeting Mrs. George Giltson gave a Christmas reading which was appreciated by all.

Clark Maynard, of Saugerties High School, then led in singing some carols with Mrs. Dederick at the piano.

The Rev. Clayton J. Potter, D. D., gave a talk on Christmas as a spiritual adventure. During his talk Dr. Potter said that the first Christmas was a great adventure which started mankind off on the search for world peace. And to imagine how and in what way that was accomplished was a definite adventure into the realm of imagination. It was his belief, said Dr. Potter, that during the Christmas season we each and every one come near to being the person we are supposed and strive to be and that is a monstrous spiritual adventure. Following Dr. Potter's thought-provoking talk Mr. Maynard again led the audience in the joyful singing of Christmas carols. When

U. S. SHIP IN DISTRESS AFTER CRASH

The United States liner City of Hamburg, (above) heavily damaged in a collision with the Italian steamer Confidenza in the North Sea, attempted to make port under her own power after radioing earlier that she was "sinking fast." Only a few passengers and a crew of 75 were on board when the crash occurred off Terschelling, Netherlands.

everyone had sung to his heart's desire a nut hunt was announced and everyone was given a bag. The prize for the most nuts collected, a bag of candy gold, was awarded to Raymond Lang.

Following that there was impromptu singing with Mr. Maynard at the piano. Then after a rousing game of horseshoe pitching, cake, coffee and Christmas cookies were served. Both Dr. Potter and Mr. Maynard were warmly thanked in appreciation of their part in making it a happy, worthwhile meeting.

The Sunday school of the Plattekill Reformed Church will hold its Christmas entertainment on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the church. Everyone is invited.

Lincoln Tunnel Open to Public

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—The new $85,000,000 Lincoln tunnel under the Hudson river between New Jersey and mid-Manhattan was opened to the public today.

A line of 20 automobiles in New Jersey and 15 in New York, each led by a car containing port authority and police officials, awaited the opening. They placidly bowed through the tunnel, paused midway through at the New York-New Jersey state line for horn-blowing and cheering, and went on their way.

The only issue of the day—"Who shall be first"—was left undecided.

No doubt that Omer C. Cataner of New York, whose chief joy in life is leading the public over bridges, through subway tunnels and into voting booths, was the first to drop a half dollar into the cash register of the new underground link.

1937 Booklet Puts Catskill Villages on A-1 Sports Map

Devoted to the interests of "Catskill Trails" are thirteen pages in the new 1937 booklet "Ski Trails of New York" published by the Bureau of State Publicity, Conservation Department, State of New York. Not only are the trails of the area described but directions for reaching the various recreation centers are published and each area is portrayed on a map where the trails are designated as "beginner", "intermediate" or "expert" according to the grades and difficulties of each individual trail. Also on the diagrams are marked off the various elevations at 100 foot intervals making the diagrams extremely useful to all skiers.

Immediately following the Adirondack Trails section of the booklet is the Catskill area in which are portrayed the Fleischmanns, Hunter, Liberty, Margaretville-Arkville, Phoenicia, Pine Hill, Roseton, Rosendale and Woodstock winter sports areas.

Phoenicia Publicity

Three full pages are devoted to the Phoenicia area which is described in the booklet as "one of the major ski centers of New York state, known as the Heart of the Catskills." Located on route 28 and the West Shore Railroad, reached by Route 9 and Mid-Hudson bridge at Poughkeepsie, thence to Kingston and via Route 28 to Phoenicia. Has best modern facilities including well equipped stores, first class hotels, boarding houses and restaurants, train and bus service. Special snow trains operated to village during season from New York city via West Shore Railroad.

Trails Described
Each of the trails maintained by the Conservation Department as well as the ski slopes are described fully and indicated on the map. Length, descent, elevation at top and bottom of each trail is given as well as maximum and average grade, width of trail and its rating, either, expert, intermediate or novice is given as well as the exposure on which may depend the desirability of the trail because of weather conditions.

Listed among the Phoenicia slopes and trails are Simpson Memorial Ski slope with ski-tow, Wittenberg, Slide Mountain and Phoenicia-East Branch trails, Panther Mountain trail, Diamond Notch trail, "Split Cat Split" trail, Indian Cave trail, McGrath trail, Roaring Spring trail, Woodland, Winnisook trail, Terrace Park trail and slopes, Kinsey trails and slope, Powder House trail, Rip Van Winkle slopes, Kinkadee slopes, Sheridan mountain slopes, Rosendale and Woodstock.

Rosendale also comes in for a section of the booklet where are described the ski slopes, trails and downhill runs. The expert ski jump of Telemark Ski Club on Joppenberg Mountain is mentioned as well as the fact that championship ski jumping meets of United States Eastern Amateur Ski Association are held during the season.

Woodstock area, served by snow trains from New York via West Shore to West Hurley, also has a full page diagram of the trails and sports center. Among the trails described are Overlook, Mt. Osage, Mink Hollow, Silver Hollow, Mt. Tomah, Mt. Tobias ski hill, Mt. Tobias Rip and Mt. Tobias practice hill.

Belle Air Mountain trail, Cathedral Brook trail, and Highmount trail at Pine Hill are also listed in the booklet.

Notice of where additional information may be had relative to each section also is given in the State Booklet. The booklets are being widely distributed and are smaller in size and more convenient to carry than a former edition "Howdy Winter," which the Bureau of State Publicity recently issued and which contains numerous photographs and more general information with but a few pages being devoted to specific information.

OLD-TIME POLICE 'FLATFOOT' DOOMED

Training Schools to Produce More Efficient Men.

Columbus, Ohio.—The days of the "flatfoot"—the arrogant, unthinking police officer who regards himself as "the law"—are limited, believes Harvey Walker, Ohio State university political science professor and director of Ohio's pioneer police school.

It will take at least another generation of policemen—thirty or forty years—before he can be displaced by the intelligent, well-trained officer, but the change is bound to come, Walker said.

The youthful professor recently completed a three-months' survey of the Toledo police department and recommended sweeping changes in administration. Despite resentment of many of the members of the force against the idea of a college professor "coming in and trying to show us how to run the department," three-fourths of Walker's recommendations have been adopted.

The change from the old to the new type officer must be accomplished first, by re-educating, as far as possible, the older men, and second, by putting recruits through a vigorous training, Walker asserted.

Process to Be Slow.

The first step is designed to make the best of existing conditions and can be abandoned as soon as the infiltration of new blood is complete. Walker pointed out that it would be impracticable as well as unjust to fire the "old school" officers wholesale.

"It can't be done in a rush," Walker said. "We have to grow out of the present conditions."

To accomplish the change, Walker recommends the establishment of a network of police schools in the various states where recruits would undergo intensive training for a minimum of ten weeks, as in England.

For at least a year following "graduation," the rookies would be placed under the supervision of experienced men and would return to the school at some time for a post-graduate course.

Walker recommends the minimum age for recruits be fixed at twenty-one years, and the maximum thirty years. They would have to score at least 105 on the army alpha test, which is slightly higher than the average score for the population as a whole.

Urges Higher Pay.

Walker thinks police work eventually can be brought to such a level that young men will regard it as a life profession. He believes, however, that salaries will have to be brought up to an average of about $2,400 a year to attract good men.

Along with the "new" policemen will come several other important changes, Walker believes, including a lowering of the present standard of one police officer for each 1,000 population, universal use of two-way radio, and almost complete motorization of the force.

In regard to the latter, Walker contends that foot patrol is practically obsolete.

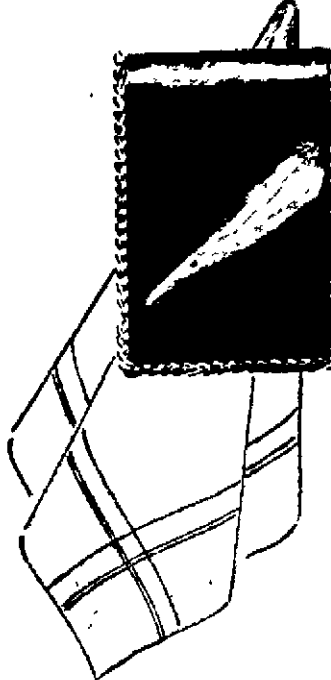

"The only reason we have foot policemen now is that people expect it," he said. "Criminals no longer move about on foot and there's no reason why the police should."

AND TALKS ON MATTERS MASCULINE

We hope you took our advice and did your Christmas shopping early, but if you haven't, here are a few suggestions for last minute gifts that are easy to find and will please almost any man. What's more, they won't have that look of having been snatched up at twenty-nine minutes past five on Christmas Eve. Incidentally, the outfit shown at the left represents an ideal fighting attire for advancing on the department store front. It is a grey, herringbone, double-breasted tweed coat, worn with brown reverse calf shoes, blue worsted suit, starched collar shirt, and wine colored Barthelemy tie, and Black Homburg hat. The gloves are yellow chamouis.

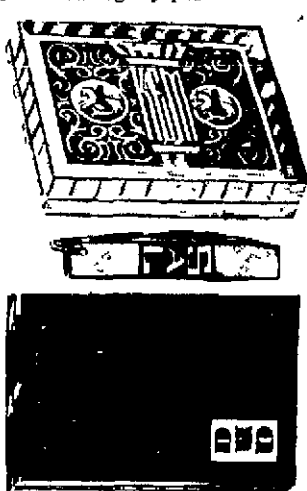

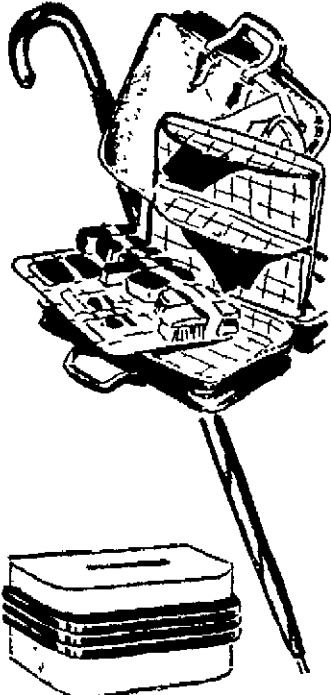

A walk is always welcome and here is an especially good looking one of Cordovan leather with braided edges. The handkerchief is sheer linen with a simple corded border and rolled edge.

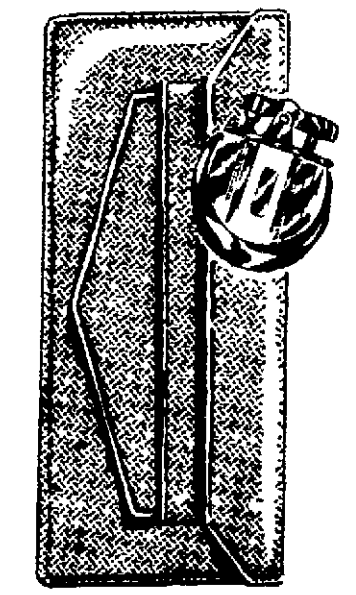

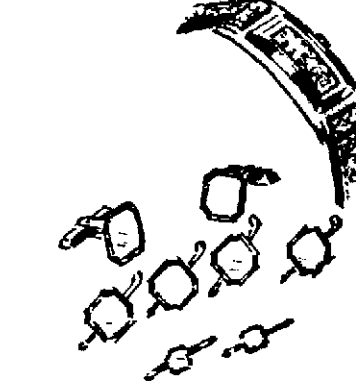

The small leather week-end kit shown here contains a complete set of toilet articles on a detachable mounting. In addition there is room for a change of linen and pajamas. The kit holds a remarkable amount of clothes for its size and is a piece of luggage anyone would use and enjoy. It

The club-striped tobacco pouch (shown at right) of silk or leather, lined in oil skin, will gladden any pipe smoker's heart. So will a humidor, and the one shown here is of wood in a smart octagonal shape. While the pipe is a traditional gift it is well to remember that no pipe smoker ever has enough pipes.

closes with a slide-fastener. Umbrellas are smart as well as utilitarian and make excellent presents. At the bottom of this illustration is a used razor blade container in modern design—made of chrome to look like a million in any bathroom.

There are many things that are particularly suitable for Christmas giving and which attain that desirable objective of being, figuratively speaking, life-time gifts. A watch, this one curved at the wrist; a set of evening dress jewelry. A pocket lighter reduced to the proportions and general shape of a pocket watch. And the cigarette case is new and very good looking.

THIS BUS WENT SHOPPING

Only the driver of the bus pictured was hurt when the vehicle slipped on a slippery hill, crashed into a train and rebounded into a five story brick building in Cohoes, N. Y. The bus was imbedded in the first-floor store, tore the wall off the second floor living room. Sanford Wise is the injured driver.

The farmer today, with his automobile, snow-cleared roads, telephone and other servants, has so completely outwitted "Old Man Winter" that he has turned him from a cold tyrant into a useful friend. It has become a season when farm families can frequently extend their social as well as business horizon, make some of those long-delayed visits to distant friends and relatives, relax and enjoy more freely what the city has to offer in entertainment, and also take part more actively in local community affairs.

The London Zoo, thanks to a generous gift from the Maharajah of Bhavnagar, is to have a handsome new elephant house. The structure will have "gracious lines, spacious proportions, and none of that 'stable' atmosphere common to zoos." There will be overhead floodlighting. Visitors may observe the elephants either from the ground floor level or from a gallery above.

Sure, the railroads need more income; but if they get higher rates, will they get as much freight to haul and as many people to carry?

If you are the man who has to wrestle with the Christmas turkey, here are a few suggestions for the job.

The first thing you'll need is a good carving knife. It should have a fine steel blade nine or ten inches long and be fairly wide at the hilt. The blade should be curved and should taper to the point.

When sharpening the cutting edge, draw it toward rather than away from you. If you do a little preliminary sharpening on an emery stone, you will find you get an even better cutting edge.

The "steel" should be kept at the table to freshen up the edge from time to time during the carving. The fork should have large curved prongs and a guard.

Have the turkey served before the soup plates are removed from the table so you'll have a few minutes head start. Be sure there is nothing on the plate except the turkey. Garnishings and trimmings interfere with the carving job when you are anxious not to strew the tablecloth with the contents of the platter.

Sink four fork in a spot a couple of inches behind the breast-bone, with one prong on either side of the bone... there is a special place apparently designed for accommodating forks and you won't have any difficulty finding it. Now slip the point of the knife under the far wing and make an upward cut to the joints that holds the wing to the turkey. Make it a straight cut well towards the neck so as not to undershoot the joint. If the wing doesn't drop off, get the knife into the joint and break it if necessary. The leg, or drumstick, and second joint should be removed in one piece. Make a straight cut to the joint that holds it to the turkey, cutting an inch or two above the tail-piece, going as far as you can, and then slip the knife behind the joint and cut to the juncture again. This should separate the second joint from the turkey. Next cut the drumstick from the second joint and put these aside.

Now put your fork back in its original position, lay the bird on its side, legless side up, and slice the breast horizontally. If the bird is on its back you slice vertically; the slices are liable to crumble as they drop down. Cut the slices in firm, long strokes, not too thick, and lift them one by one to the side of the plate. When you have finished with the breast, go through the same operations on the other side of the turkey.

For a White Christmas

ARROW HITT

WHITE SHIRTS are always welcome presents — men never get too many. And Arrow's HITT shirt is one of America's favorites. It has the famous Arrow collar that keeps its starched-collar spruceness without the aid of starch. It has Arrow's patented Mirogacut to make it fit better, and it is Sanforized-Shrunk — a blessing that men appreciate.

Kind of Fuel for New School to Be Decided Dec. 22

A special meeting of the board of education will be held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the high school for the purpose of discussing type of fuel for the new central school building now under erection. At the last meeting of the board the contract for the heating and ventilating of the building was awarded to the Johnston Company of New York but the question of using coal or oil fuel was not determined pending the receiving of a supplemental report from consulting engineers employed to make a study of the local situation.

The original bids for heating and ventilating were rejected and Teller & Halverson, architects, drew up revised bids. A study of the bids disclosed that the Johnston Company was low bidder for either coal or oil fired boiler and consequently was awarded the contract, decision on fuel being reserved at the time.

Appointment of a clerk to fill a vacancy in the office of Principal Dumm at the high school will also be made. This matter was referred to the teachers' committee at the last meeting of the board. An eligible list of three names has been submitted and the recommendation of the committee will be presented to the board for confirmation. This appointment must be made prior to January first.

Any family who has one of its members afflicted with partial deafness or "hard of hearing" as it is now more properly called, knows something of the difficulties, the misunderstanding and the periods of depression not only of the afflicted one but of the whole household. Fortunately just as organizations for the blind are now quite numerous, so also are the branches of the American Society for the Hard of Hearing being organized in many cities, with headquarters located at 1537, 35th St. N. W., Washington, D. C.

Solomon Bernard of Poughkeepsie visited relatives and friends here Sunday.

The annual Christmas entertainment of the scholars in Modena School District No. 4 will be conducted Tuesday evening at the school.

Fort Niagara Alive With Early History

Fort Niagara, N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP)—Proud of their historical background, the guns at old Fort Niagara acowl down on the Niagara river and Lake Ontario with senile, if rejuvenated, ferocity.

Not since December 2, 1813, have any troops called on them for a repelling broadside—and even on that exciting occasion they couldn't turn the trick.

For on that date, General Murray of the British army ferried a mixed party of Indians, ex-patriated Tories and regulars across the river from Canada and took the fort from 400 poorly supported and supplied Americans.

The Yankees got it back by treaty—the Treaty of Ghent—and a long peace came to the border where men of war had fought intermittently for 125 years.

In all those bloody years, the stockade perched on the cliff above lake and river played an important part.

French Adventurer Robert Cavalier de La Salle built the first structure there and descriptively called it "Logements". Warring Seneca Indians destroyed it in 1675, six years after he finished it.

Marquis de Nonville, governor of New France, built another and named it after himself. His garrison of 100 men died almost to a man, of disease and starvation.

In 1720, the persistent French under Charbert de Joncaire twisted a trading treaty with the Senecas and rebuilt their fort at the river's mouth. Although the treaty called for it to stand six miles upstream.

This time they built of stone a formidable military position mounting 30 guns, turreted, bastioned, and capable of accommodating 1,000 men.

Their nearby English enemies objected. In 1759, General William Johnson and 2,000 mixed English regulars and militia laid siege to "The Castle", as it came to be known, and forced the French to evacuate.

Shortly thereafter, King George's Seneca Indian allies fell out with their white comrades, attacked a supply train below the fort and committed a massacre almost as complete as Custer's at the Little Big Horn.

Only three men out of a force of 250 escaped. The spot came to be known as "Devil's Hole" and the creek that ran nearby, "Bloody Run".

When rebellion rent the 13 colonies in 1776, Sir William Johnson fed his home in Johnstown, N. Y., and set up Tory headquarters at the old fort. From it, marauding bands left to plunder frontier homes in the Mohawk and Wyoming valleys.

Fort Niagara became United States property by the treaty of Paris in 1783. But a shrewd, tenacious Britisher, General "Holdover" Haldimand, stalled off their taking possession for 13 years, during which the English plied a profitable fur trade. Haldimand out-argued a host of American representatives, including Baron von Steuben, who came to claim the fort.

He finally surrendered it in 1796, and the first Yankee troops marched in—one company of them. Poorly manned and maintained, the fort deteriorated badly until its owners had pressing need for it with the outbreak of hostilities in 1812.

From it, the government at Washington pushed an invasion of Canada, an invasion that ended in defeat at Queenstown Heights, Ont.

After the British re-took it and then surrendered it in 1814, the fort again fell on evil days.

In 1926, the old Fort Niagara Historical Association obtained a government grant to rehabilitate the property and in seven years restored it to approximately condition in which the French abandoned it in 1759.

Market Again Gained Tuesday

With trading a bit heavier, the total being 1,284,000 shares, the market again gained Tuesday, but to less extent. At the close industrial were up 0.39 point, to 129.95 on the Dow-Jones averages; rails made a slight advance, 0.07 point, to 22.65; utilities were barely ahead, closing at 21.81. London and Amsterdam markets were higher, with indications of a revival of interest in American shares—New York Central, Republic and Bethlehem Steel, Anaconda Copper and aircraft shares being favored. Paris market was steady.

The hides futures market soared yesterday and sales of nearly 160,000 actual hides, at advances up to half a cent over previous transactions, were reported. Endicott Johnson bought 34,000 hides. Financial resources and credit of Western Union and Postal Telegraph are reported popularized by decline in revenues because of the business recession and increase in costs, despite drastic operating economies. The companies plan to ask the FCC for a 15 per cent increase in rates.

Reflecting lower gross and higher costs the first six carriers, reporting for November show net operating income 39.1 per cent under that of a year ago. Canadian National Railways have called for tenders for new rolling equipment, with further tenders to be made early in the year. Total value of the orders is estimated at around $3,000,000.

The Maritime Commission will soon announce conclusion of permanent subsidy agreements with certain operators of commercial shipping lines, increasing government subsidies approximately $5,000,000 a year. The total cost of new agreements will be about $15,000,000 a year and this amount may be increased after the commission reaches an accord with additional lines.

The ICC yesterday adopted a new plan for speeding recapitalization of the more than 30 railroads now in the hands of court-appointed trustees. The new plan involves an "interim" report by the Commission's bureau of finance, prior to final hearings. Net income of Middle West Corp. for 1937 may be slightly higher than 1936.

Acting in accord with the recommendations of a special commission appointed some time ago to formulate a plan to bolster industry, and faced by a deepening economic recession, the French Popular Front cabinet yesterday voted relaxation of the government's enforced 40-hour work week. As a result of the shortened work week costs have skyrocketed in many industries and production has fallen off.

The drop in Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit earnings is shown by a report for the five months ended November 30. Earnings for the period were $496,502, or $1.99 a preferred share, compared with $2,062,239, or $1.87 a common share a year ago.

For the 12 months ended November 30, Commonwealth & Southern reports net of $15,852,187, or 20 cents a share, compared with $12,753,361, or 11 cents a share in the preceding year.

The AFL-CIO peace conferences, which have been going on with intermissions for more than two months, are reported to have collapsed, following a brief meeting yesterday afternoon.

Employees of Pacific Gas & Electric rejected the CIO as their bargaining agency, in favor of independent union, in NLRB election.

The special session of Congress is seen as a complete "nop" as it adjourned yesterday without completing action on any part of President Roosevelt's legislation program.

Six hundred workers in the Erie railroad shops at Hornell were to be laid off indefinitely today, under orders from the Cleveland general office of the road.

Sales of reporting department stores for the first 13 shopping days in December, in the Brooklyn areas, show an increase of four per cent over last year, according to the Federal Reserve Bank. Reporting stores in the New Jersey area show a decline of 2.7 per cent.

We've streamlined everything from silhouettes and through trains to kitchens this last couple of years. "Streamlined" signifies speed, efficiency, and beauty to the modern mind. Why not carry the idea through to your party plans for this holiday season? Make them as easy, quick, simple, and effective. Take away all unnecessary detail.

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—A little buying on the accumulation side, plus some short covering, rallied a slipping stock market a bit today but losses were more numerous than gains.

As the final hour approached prices were uneven and in a restricted range. Trading was at the rate of 1,200,000 shares.

Stocks heavy at the start, were in mild demand in the rallying move, although few were able to push very high in the plus column. Motors likewise came back a little, while aircraft issues pushed a bit ahead. Oils, utilities, rubbers and rail lacked direction. There were a few spots, among them Youngstown Sheet & Tube, American Can, Wright Aeronautics, U. S. Gypsum and Climax Molybdenum in a narrow range. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Boeing, United Aircraft, International Nickel, National Lead, Corn Products, American Telephone, Anaconda Copper, Johns-Manville, Santa Fe, Standard Oil of New Jersey, DuPont and Sears Roebuck. Foreign markets were mixed and dull. Commodities, with the exception of hides, turned lower. Bonds were about even or a little lower, including U. S. government loans.

The Elks Lose to West Hurley Five

Tuesday evening at Pythian Hall, Port Ewen, the Kingston Elks lost to the powerful West Hurley Five in an overtime period 32 to 38. The game was close all the way through with the West Hurley team gathering eight points in the extra period. B. Hoffman and Jack Gruberg were high for the Elks with 15 and 8 respectively. For West Hurley A. Nussbaum and C. Haines were the big guns with 17 and 11.

Elks (32)—Sapp 3, Williams 4, Hoffman 15, Gruberg 8, Cline 0, Allen 2.

West Hurley (38)—A. Nussbaum 17, W. Sawyer 0, Haines 11, E. Sawyer 2, Ostrander 8.

Score at half 19 to 17, Elks leading. Fouls committed Elks 8, West Hurley 4. Timekeeper Mayone and Curtiss, Referee Barton.

Eight-Eyed Spider Able to See From All Angles

Most interesting of all species of spiders in the British Isles is one that spends its life under water. Yet it must breathe air to live.

The water spider discovered how to live in a diving bell ages before man thought of descending beneath the surface of lakes and seas. It is little more than half an inch in length; in color it is a dull reddish brown, or sometimes mouse gray, and it is covered with a mass of minute hairs. It has eight eyes, so arranged that it can see in all directions, notes a writer in London Tit-Bits Magazine.

Insects must breathe air, and those like the larvae of the mosquito, which live in water, must rise to the surface at intervals to take in a supply. Though spiders do not breathe through the mouth, but through a series of tracheae on the sides of the body, the water spider must have air in its natural form.

It is confronted with a difficult engineering problem. If we place one of these creatures in a jar filled with clear water, we notice that directly it gets beneath the surface it appears to be clothed with a glistening silver coat. This dress consists of a covering of air, so that as the spider travels through the water it carries its air supply with it. Head and legs are free, for the spider must capture its food in the water.

The water spider seems to have invented an appliance similar to that which enables engineers to lay foundations of underwater works, and it need only come to the surface for fresh supplies at long intervals.

First Post Office Seals Bore Words "Registered"

The first post office seal was issued in 1872 and bore the word "registered," since it was designed to secure registered mail against tampering during transit. This green seal was engraved by the National Bank Note company, which held the contract for printing all United States postage stamps at that time. It has been found in several scarce varieties, including stamps printed on both sides, stamps printed on pelure, or very thin, paper, and on paper showing laid lines, and in 1880 a special printing was made on the customary stock paper of that period.

The regular "officially sealed" stamps made their appearance in 1877 and were intended to re-seal letters which had been opened in the Dead Letter office and letters which had been opened by mistake as well as others damaged in transit or found open in the mail.

The first samples of this series were engraved and contained the inscription "Post Obitem." In the background, in 1879 new seals appeared which were engraved in brown as in the previous case, but were without the funeral inscription. In 1880 lithography was adopted and the new seals, which omitted the engraver's name in the lower border, came in a variety of browns and were issued imperforate and rouletted in addition to the standard perforated 12 variety.

Old Laws Affecting Realty

In Morocco if a realty owner has a Sultan's grant, his title to the property is undisputed, but otherwise he cannot afford to "fall out" with his neighbors. The law requires the testimony of twelve neighboring persons as to uninterrupted and undisputed possession during a period of at least ten years before a clear title can be obtained by the owner. The Turkish law requires affixing of a photograph of the seller to all deeds. In Palestine, deeds and other similar documents are available from the government in three languages—English, Hebrew and Arabic. In China, foreigners hold land only under perpetual lease, while natives in purchasing property must obtain official title deeds from the government, or through village chiefs. The "middleman" or "introducer," similar to the realty broker in the United States, is held responsible if there are flaws in the title.

Guessed Wrong

According to the prophecy in St. Peter's epistle the medieval church expected the end of the world to be near. The first century passed without this catastrophe occurring. Gradually as the year 1000 approached all Christians feared the millennium. Crowds renounced their earthly possessions and fled to Mount Zion where it was rumored that Christ would appear. In America, William Miller started a group of Second Adventists or Millerites who waited in vain for the end of the world in 1844. There have been various times since this when the coming doom has been prophesied.

These clerks in Chicago's main post office had to go at top speed to handle this huge wave of packages because many more followed in its wake. This was one of the famous annual Christmas rushes when the U. S. mail service is deluged with packages of cheer to millions.

By L. L. STEVENSON

Ramblings and ruminations: A quarter of beef being dragged across a Fifty-second street sidewalk. . . . Into the basement of a night-club. . . . Much of it probably will be turned into $5 steaks. . . . A big black cat scurrying up the steps of the John D. Rockefeller, Jr., residence. . . . Which despite announcements, will not be razed right away. . . . The residence I mean. . . . A watchman has chased the cat. . . . The chauffeur of an imported limousine nodding in front of a Fifth avenue store. . . . My lady is evidently taking her time about shopping. . . . What do chauffeurs think about anyway during the many hours they spend waiting? . . . Or taxi drivers while they are bucking. . . . But most of the latter read newspapers. . . . or dope sheets. . . . A window filled with silver fox coats. . . . If I had the value of that display. . . . Well, what's the use of dreaming?

Newsboys playing cards for pennies in a Forty-fourth street hallway. . . . That little restaurant where real East Indian food is served. . . . and where is sold perfume the merest trace of which lasts for 24 hours. . . . A crowd assembling in front of a radio playhouse. . . . Where admission is free. . . . Provided a ticket is presented, of course. . . . Gertrude Lawrence entering the stage door of the Plymouth. . . . Ready for another portrayal of "Susan and God". . . . Thought Gilbert Miller was in Europe again. . . . But maybe I'm mistaken. . . . Or possibly he has a double. . . . Charles C. Miller who is just about ready for another expedition to New Guinea. . . . That middle initial is often changed to "Cannibal". . . . Because he's eaten human flesh. Had to. . . . Or he eaten himself. . . . Why do leather goods stores always seem to be putting on going-out-of-business sales?

A Broadway beauty queen who transforms old mugs into new. . . . But on Madison avenue, it's the old mugs that are valuable. . . . In the antique shops of course. . . . A medicine show operating in Times square. . . . and attracting a lot of spectators at least. . . . That vacant lot on Eighth avenue, near Forty-second street, where the medicine men used to hold forth, is now a parking lot. . . . Possibly I'm wrong, but it seems as if there are more red neon signs on mid-town Eighth avenue than anywhere else in town. . . . and most of them advertise bars and grills. . . . That sea food restaurant reminds me that I haven't looked up my favorite oyster stew maker yet. . . . Will have to attend to that immediately. . . . The walk across town ought to be an appetite producer.

Andy Freeman, who has just completed his book on the life of Dr. Cook. . . . Worked on it more than a year. . . . And Earl Chapin May, whose book, "The Canning Clan," interested me very much. . . . Just think, 120 years ago, there were no American canners. . . . Wonder what housewives did then? . . . But there wasn't any contract bridge in those days either. . . . Ed Bodin, my favorite literary agent. . . . Leonard Lyons, who is one of the town's proudest fathers. . . . and whose new boy furnished some column material at least. . . . Lucius Beebe and a gang of fellow newspaper workers entering the Artists and Writers club. . . . Percy Boone, who is handling the publicity for the World's fair. . . . An unsteady gentleman with two very black eyes trying vainly to insert a letter in the box at Forty-second and Broadway.

The clock in the tower of old Trinity chiming the hour. . . . A shawled woman pawing in a trash basket on a Wall street corner. . . . A bus driver stealing a quick smoke at the end of the line. . . . Wonder what became of the proprietors of those little downtown shops put out of business by the building of the Eighth avenue subway. . . . Seems like I'm doing a lot of wondering today. . . . But maybe that's because 1937 is drawing so rapidly to a close.

Usually, I don't care for drunk stories. But this one gave me a chuckle: A sous-chef threw his arms about a lamp post. Round and round he went, all the while feeling the iron. Finally he gave up and muttered, "No use. Walled in."

Sports of Earlier Days

Subject of Old Prints
Ice skating and iceboat sailing were two popular winter sports of American life in the latter half of the Nineteenth century, writes Thomas H. Ormsbee in the American Collector, and both were recorded in the prints of the day. "The Union Pond" (Williamsburgh, L. I.) was issued by Thomas & Eno, New York, and is typical of a number that were published by lithographers. This one is of particular interest. Although it is not signed by the artist, careful study of drawing and technique makes it proper to ascribe it to the artist Winslow Homer, and as such it is an excellent example of his early print work.

Sports were not neglected in the comic prints, particularly those drawn by Thomas Worth and published by Currier & Ives. In their catalogue of comics they listed fifty-eight horse pictures, fifteen with a prizefight setting, five showing a baseball game and four with bicycling as the sport. In the Darytown series six have to do with tennis, six with bicycling, four with yachting, four concern horse racing, two have football as the theme and several other: poke fun at what were then minor sports.

Finally, in the lithographed political cartoons of the period, the setting is occasionally that of sports. One of the earliest, "Settling the French Question," by James Akin, Philadelphia, about 1840, shows President Andrew Jackson as a prizefighter ready to do battle with the French king over payments to the United States for damages during the Napoleonic wars. Another prizefight setting shows Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis.

Coeds Go to Dogs—

for Wearing Apparel

Columbus, Mo.—Coeds at the University of Missouri are going to the dogs—at least, as far as their clothes are concerned. Three girls the other day appeared on the campus wearing dog collars complete with brass studs, name plates and locks.

Nut Cake
Mint Candies
Candied Grapefruit Peel

Chicken-Fruit Salad
2 cups diced cooked chicken
1 cup seeded white grapes
1 cup diced apples
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika
2 cups diced celery
1 cup stiff mayonnaise
1/4 cup whipped cream

Mix cream with mayonnaise. Add half of it to rest of the ingredients which have been chilled. Serve in bowl lined with cress or lettuce. Top with rest of mayonnaise and serve immediately.

Nut Cake
1 1/2 cups granulated sugar
4 egg yolks
8 egg whites
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup nuts
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup chopped nuts

Beat yolks and sugar together for two minutes. Beat whites. Add flour and baking powder. Add vanilla and salt. Mix lightly. Add nuts and yolk mixture. Mix just enough to hold the ingredients together. Pour into two layer-cake pans lined with waxed paper. Bake for 25 minutes in a slow oven (325 degrees). Cool. Discard waxed papers and add filling.

Filling
1 1/2 cups whipped cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 tablespoons granulated sugar
Mix ingredients and use as filling for two baked layer cakes. Decorate top with candied fruit.

NEW "CARRY NATION" HITS THE JACKPOT

Mrs. Irene Kite, 42, of Alton, Ill., the "Carry Nation" of the slot machines, with her hatchet which she used to destroy slot machines in seven taverns. She apologized later to one of the tavern operators. His reply: "You're like the Japanese, you sink the ship and then say you're sorry." She said she was protesting against discriminatory police closure of her husband's dice game.

MUSICAL TALENT of Jeanne Dietrich, 33, of Williamsburg, Ky., impressed Singer Grace Moore who'll aid child with Hollywood film test.

Dietrich Parts With Paramount

Hollywood, Dec. 22 (AP)—Marlene Dietrich, 33-year-old German star, parted company today with the studio which paid her $250,000 a picture for her blond charm. That aroused immediate speculation whether the erstwhile "blue angel" ever would make another American film.

The rift between Miss Dietrich and her studio was disclosed in Paramount's announcement that it has "indefinitely postponed" filming of "French Without Tears."

The studio purchased the play at Miss Dietrich's request, she said, with reservations, it would be her last American picture.

Informed sources expressed extreme doubt that Paramount ever would start the production, although the actress' contract, with no time limit, provides for one more starring movie.

Behind her formal separation from the studio, film industry observers cited the factor of million-dollar production costs and waning box office receipts of Dietrich pictures.

Allergic Children Found to Be Most Intelligent

St. Louis—Children with hay fever and other allergies are more intelligent than children not so afflicted, according to Dr. J. Harvey Black, professor of preventive medicine at Baylor university, Dallas, Texas.

Black, a speaker at the Interstate Postgraduate Medical association here, said that allergic children, despite frequent absences from school, usually rank very high in class work. He also said that those with hay fever and asthma usually avoid other childhood ailments.

Caterpillars Can Hear

This statement has been made because experiments have shown that these insects have the ability to hear; for certain sounds result in sudden movements of the body. Hairs that absorb sound are provided in place of ears. In experiments, when these hairs were coated with shellac and noises were made, the caterpillar did not respond.

When completely filled, Lake Mead, created by the Colorado river backing up behind Boulder dam, will be 115 miles long.

Cellulose Found in Most Plant Matter Specimens

Most types of plant matter contain large amounts of cellulose. Cellulose, as well as starch, is formed by the linking together of large numbers of molecules of certain sugars known as hexoses. The hexose sugars, which include all of the familiar sugars, are characterized by the fact that they contain a string of six carbon atoms in their molecules.

Corn cobs, grain hulls and straw, and bagasse (dried sugar cane stalks) contain in addition a class of compounds known as pentosans. Pentosans are also built up from a large number of sugar molecules, but of a type known as pentoses, containing five instead of six carbon atoms.

When hexoses are heated with dilute acids, says a writer in the Chicago Tribune, extensive decomposition takes place, with the formation of caramel and various organic acids. Similar treatment applied to pentosans results in the formation of a large amount of furfural, a clear, water-insoluble liquid with a characteristic pungent odor.

Furfural, different from all other cheaply produced organic compounds, has its most important use in the refining of petroleum lubricants. Furfural is one of those compounds that do not dissolve in the oil but are capable of washing out from it a large part of the larry materials that detract from its lubricating properties.

Blonds Have Most Hair; Brunettes, Redheads Next

It has been found that people with the most abundant body-hair have the least abundant head-hair, and that the proportion varies with the color.

Blonds have from 140,000 to 160,000 hairs, brunettes from 80,000 to 125,000, and red-heads from 25,000 to 55,000.

We all lose about 40 hairs a day, says a writer in Pearson's London Weekly, so that if you had a defective one on your track, your head would leave a trail like a paper-chase behind you.

Every time you shave you throw 10,000 clues to your identity down the drain, for beard, eyebrow and eyelash hairs all have their own distinguishing marks.

In special circumstances the scientific expert can tell a male hair from a female hair, and he can cut sections lengthwise to decide from what kind of animal a non-human hair has come.

In section, hairs from dogs and cats are easily distinguishable, and a fiber of wool has a distinctive set of conical joints which can even show the variety of sheep from which it came. Silk and cotton fibers are also different.

Table Manners

Manners vary considerably in different parts of the world—especially table manners. What we would consider terribly rude in this country is regarded as excellent in India, says London Tit-Bits Magazine. If you dine with an Indian in his country you are expected to lick the platter clean—to leave anything on your plate is an insult to his food. Be sure to call for a second helping of everything in a loud voice, and a third, if possible. Always praise the items and give the impression that the food is delicious. You are expected to desist when you cannot eat more, not when you have had sufficient. Patting your stomach as proof is one sign. Indians are great eaters, and "strong" and "fat" are synonymous, especially among the "bannias" (shopkeeper) class. Among them it is common practice to tie a length of cotton around their waists and eat until their stomach swells and the cotton snaps. Then they cease immediately.

Deadlock Broken

Cairo, Dec. 22 (AP)—The deadlock between King Farouk and the Egyptian cabinet was broken today when the ministers agreed to the ruler's demands that the blue-shirted youth organization of the WAFD (Nationalist) Party be dissolved.

Northwest Territory Was Under Ordinance of 1787

The "ordinance of 1787" was an ordinance under which the Northwest Territory was organized as a territory of the United States. Northwest Territory was the name given to the region west of Pennsylvania, east of the Mississippi river, north of the Ohio river, and south of Canada. The greater part of this territory belonged to France prior to 1783, when it was ceded by treaty to Great Britain, which, at the close of the Revolution, ceded it to the United States. For several years, owing to conflicting claims, Massachusetts, New York, Virginia, and Connecticut, its exact status was uncertain, says a writer in the Indianapolis News, but at length these disputes were settled, and the region was organized as a territory of the United States under the ordinance of 1787.

The ordinance prohibited slavery; provided that not less than three nor more than five states were to be formed; that a state was to be admitted to the Union when it should have a population of 60,000; and that a general assembly was to be organized for the territory as soon as the population should have reached 5,000. The ordinance contained a bill of rights, secured freedom of worship, the benefits of the writ of habeas corpus, and exemption from cruel and unusual punishments, and encouraged education and good faith toward the Indians.

The authorship of the ordinance has been disputed, but the credit probably belongs jointly to Nathan Dane and Manasseh Cutler. In the main it served as the model upon which subsequent territories were organized, except as regards slavery restriction.

The Northwest Territory was governed as such from 1787 to 1802, Arthur St. Clair being governor; and from it were created the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Transylvania, Kentucky, Once Set Up as a State

Transylvania embraced a little more than half the area of Kentucky—the middle section—and extended into Tennessee. It was set up in the Cherokee country in 1775 by Richard Henderson of North Carolina.

It was Henderson's aim, according to a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, to establish beyond the Alleghenies a proprietary government like that of William Penn. With eight associates, he bought title from the Indians in March, 1775, and soon afterward brought about 200 settlers into the territory. There was conflict at once with the government of Virginia, which claimed jurisdiction over the region and had already made grants of some parts of it.

Henderson and his co-proprietors proceeded, however, with the organization of their domain. In May, 1775, they gave the community a constitution, guaranteeing annual legislatures elected by the people, and establishing courts.

The disputes over jurisdiction were carried to the Continental congress, which disposed of Henderson's claims by referring the whole matter to the Virginia convention of 1776. This convention insisted on Virginia's jurisdiction over all of the territory of Transylvania, and the latter, as an independent colony, came to an end. The Transylvania proprietors, however, were granted a compensation of 200,000 acres of land.

Memorial to Lumbermen

A memorial to Michigan's lumbermen is located in the Huron National forest on the high bank of the Au Sable river, overlooking Five Channels dam, 15 miles northwest of East Tawas. It is composed of three bronze figures, each nine feet tall, resting on a 20-ton granite base. One is the lumber cruiser, pack on back and compass in hand, running a section line; another is the woodsman carrying an ax and saw, and the third is the river man with a peavy. The figures are a composite of several hundred pictures loaned to the sculptor, Robert Atken of New York. One side carries the inscription: "Erected to perpetuate the memory of the pioneer lumbermen of Michigan, through whose labors was made possible the development of the prairie states." The three remaining sides are inscribed with the names of 91 Michigan men whose lives were closely linked with early Michigan lumbering.

K. of C. Christmas Party December 23

The local Knights of Columbus, through the efforts of Lecturer J. A. Alvarez, has arranged a Christmas party for all members of the council, their wives and children. The party will be held at the council chamber on Thursday evening, December 23, at 7 o'clock.

There will be a Christmas tree, good old St. Nicholas himself, and gifts for the kiddies. It is hoped that a large number will attend this party, which promises plenty of fun for both young and old. A cordial invitation is extended to every member and his family to be present on that evening. Every member also has the privilege of inviting his friends to attend this party with him.

Christmas Eve Service at 7 P. M.

The annual Christmas eve service in Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church on Livingston street will be held Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

Following the Christmas message by the pastor, the Rev. E. L. Witte, on the theme "The Night of the Nativity of Our Lord," the children of the church will present a pageant, "The Night Sublime." The pageant is arranged in four episodes, The Promised One, the Watching Shepherds, the Adoring Wise Men and the Wondrous Birth.

A children's chorus will sing traditional Christmas carols, and the choir will render a festive selection. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Aglaia, Euphrosyne and Thalia, the Three Graces

The Three Graces included Aglaia (pronounced a-glay-ya), Euphrosyne (u-fros-in-ee) and Thalia (pronounced thal-ia), accent on second syllable in each case. In Greek mythology they were sister goddesses, intimate with the Muses and often the attendants of Venus or Apollo. They are represented as beautiful maidens, embodying and conferring grace, beauty and joy. One version of their origin, notes a correspondent in the Detroit News, makes them the daughters of Zeus and Eurynome. Aglaia, meaning splendor or brilliance, represented mirth; Euphrosyne, meaning joy, represented cheerfulness of mind; Thalia, meaning bud or bloom, represented good-tempered jest. In art they are usually shown embracing each other, to indicate that where one is, the others are welcome.

The worship of these goddesses in Greece was very ancient, and there were local variations in the cult. At Orchomenus in Boeotia there was a venerable shrine where they were worshiped under the form of three stones said to have fallen from heaven. The early connection of the Graces with the bloom of nature was soon obscured by the conception of them as goddesses of the joy of life and beauty, present at the dances and feasts of the gods. To the Romans they were considered less deities than artistic abstractions borrowed from the Greeks.

Yuletide at Albany Avenue Church

At the Albany Avenue Baptist Church the program of Christmas activities will continue through another week.

On Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock there will be a Christmas carol service. On Sunday there will be a full program of Christmas music at both morning and evening services. The morning theme will be one of interest to boys and girls, "The Boyhood of Jesus", and at the evening service the message will be on "The Final Triumph of Christ".

The Bible School Christmas entertainment will be held on Tuesday evening and the program will include varied features such as music, recitations, and group pieces. Then there will be carols, gifts, a Christmas tree, and a visit from Santa Claus. This will be especially interesting to the children, and parents and others are also welcome.

A STUFFIN' for CHICKEN

It Gives an EXTRA
Good Flavor To That
Noble Bird

By Dorothy Greig

IN early colonial days when company was expected for dinner, our forefathers used to say to our forefathers, "John, go out and get me a turkey or a couple of ducks." And John took down his trusted blunderbuss and obediently fared forth, as a good husband should, to return a few hours later with a wild turkey, or pheasant, ducks or geese slung triumphantly over his shoulder. Then great was the feasting . . . if all accounts that have come down to us are true. Our forefathers and mothers gave good food the full respect that is its due.

To this day, chicken, goose, turkey and duck are "company" dinners and long may it be so. For there is nothing finer to set before a guest than roast bird, golden brown, plump-cheated and tender, filled with spicy stuffing.

The stuffing is important. Some like a dry stuffing. Some prefer a moist one. We have our favorite, too. We like it first because it helps keep the meat moist and tender; and second, because the flavor from the chicken permeates the dressing and adds to its already delectable flavor. It is a dressing with savor.

Rice Stuffing for Roast Chicken
½ cup sliced onion
2 tablespoons minced green pepper
1 tablespoon fat
1 can condensed tomato soup
½ cup water
2 whole cloves
1 small bay leaf
3 cups salted cooked rice
4-pound roast chicken
Cook the onions and green pepper

Rice Stuffing for chicken is different and delicious.

In the hot melted fat until tender. Then add 1 can of condensed tomato soup, ½ cup water, 2 cloves and bay leaf. Simmer for 15 minutes. Remove the cloves and bay leaf. Add the salted cooked rice and mix thoroughly. Stuff the chicken with this mixture. Now for the actual roasting of the chicken. The time-honored way to roast is first to sear at high heat and then turn down the flame for the balance of the roasting. That is still a good way. It browns the bird nicely but it does have a tendency to dry out the meat. For that reason, the last year or two, cooking experts have been suggesting this better way: Roast for a longer time at one even lower temperature throughout. This gives a meat that is gloriously moist and tender. But—and goodness, how many buns there are in this world—it does not brown quite so much as when a first high-searing temperature is used. You "takes your pick" as the saying is.

Even Temperature Method.

Put the chicken into a 350-degree oven and allow 20-30 minutes per pound.

Searing Method.

Put the chicken into a 500-degree oven for the first 15 minutes and then turn down to 350 degrees and allow 15-20 minutes per pound from then on.

LIVE BUSINESS MEN ADVERTISE IN THE FREEMAN

Ted Healy Autopsy Is Ordered Today To Fix Death Cause

Los Angeles, Dec. 22 (AP)—An autopsy was ordered today to determine whether Ted Healy, stage and screen comedian, died from the effects of a first flight which, police were told, climaxed a gay celebration of the birth of his son.

Although Healy's death was announced by his studio (M-G-M) as due to a heart attack in his Westwood home, police said they learned he was engaged in a fight Sunday night outside a popular Hollywood night club, the "Troadero," with an unknown adversary.

Coroner Frank Nance claimed Healy's body from an undertaker after Dr. William Lamont, who attended Healy, refused to sign a certificate of death from natural causes.

Healy, who was 41, was credited with originating the "stooge" school of comedy—a routine in which he and several teammates traded blows on the head accompanied by hollow off-stage sounds and then sank blank-eyed, to the floor.

Mayor, Chief Magistrate; "His Worship," in Courts

The office of mayor is an ancient one, reaching back to Saxon times, states a writer in London Tit-Bits Magazine. During the term the mayor of a borough is always the chief magistrate, and is accented as "His Worship" in the courts, the term being derived from the Saxon "worth-ship," meaning a highly estimable person. In Scotland the mayor is called the "provost," which comes from "praepositus," the Latin for "prefect" or one who is placed before. Both Edinburgh and Glasgow have Lord Provosts, but in England the same word usually refers to the heads of colleges, universities, and certain cathedrals.

Some mayors and lord mayors have other titles, too. London's lord mayor, for instance, is portreeve, or in modern parlance, admiral of the port of London, and as such he takes precedence over all officers of the royal navy in London waters, and only the king and the prince of Wales can issue orders to him.

In many towns—including Dundee, and Nelson and Moseley (Lancashire)—mayors are allowed the privilege of setting up lampposts outside their homes, and the practice also spreads to the dominions. At Sherbrooke, Quebec, where this privilege is highly prized, the residences of past mayors may be picked out by the distinctive lampposts in front of them, each bearing the coat-of-arms of the city.

Adage "Taxation Without Representation" by Otis

The statement, "Taxation without representation is tyranny" was attributed to James Otis by John Adams in his "Works" in which he says "since the debate concerning the writs of assistance, and since it was known that the acts of trade were to be enforced, and a revenue collected by authority of parliament, Mr. Otis' maxim, that 'taxation without representation is tyranny' . . . had become a popular proverb."

William Tudor, in "Life of James Otis, of Massachusetts," and E. L. Magoon in "Orators of the American Revolution" also attributed it to Otis. William S. Walsh in "Handy Book of Literary Curiosities" says it is not known who first coined the phrase.

Charles F. Mullett, author of "Some Political Writings of James Otis," writes:

"John Adams attributed the saying to Otis; however, he did so very late in life, and John's memory played him tricks. To the best of my knowledge, Otis never actually used the phrase. Who did invent it no one knows. The closest phrase to it, that I know, is in one of Burke's speeches on American affairs: 'Taxation without representation is injustice and oppression.' Of course, some variation was in the mouth of every political author at the time and could easily be shortened into the more telling epigram."

The Duke of Sussex

George IV of England had no sons. The sixth son of George III was August Frederick, duke of Sussex, who was born in 1773. The prince was married in Rome in 1793 to Lady Augusta (died 1830), daughter of John Murray, fourth earl of Dunmore. The ceremony was repeated in London and two children were born, but under the Royal Marriage Act of 1772 the court of Archbishops declared the union illegal. The children took the name of d'Este. The second wife of the duke of Sussex was Cecilia, widow of Sir George Buggin. She was created duchess of Inverness in 1840. The duke of Sussex died at Kensington palace on April 21, 1843.

Fish Duck Smallest

Fish ducks are noted by their teeth. The smallest of the species, the hooded merganser, has a large circular black crest with a white marking that starts from the eye in the shape of a fan. The American merganser male has a greenish black head and upper neck and white undercocks. The female is larger than the canvasback, for which it is often mistaken, because of the brown head. Fishers all the mergansers are noted for their deep diving in search of it.

EMPLOYS BOX CARS FOR HOBO CHAPELS

"Sky Pilot of Rails" Tells of Seven Years' Work.

Pueblo, Colo.—Robert I. Bell, "in-erant preacher, has more churches in this country than the combined buildings of any single faith. For seven years Bell, who calls himself the "sky pilot of the rails," has been conducting services among the nation's professional transients. Any box car is his chapel—his congregation the thousands of hoboes and "drifters" who frequent "jungs" over the country.

He has lived in vacant lots and groves near railroad yards where hoboes make their temporary homes. He has brewed coffee and "muligan" in tin cans around their open fires. Knowing the language, habits, and problems of the hobo, Bell is respected and has influence among them.

His mission, however, is not so much concerned with those hard-end men who have been on the road for years. He is interested more in the young boys who wander aimlessly over the country and who, he says, invariably get into trouble. He tries to rehabilitate them and send them home.

Being a "box car bishop" is not an easy job, Bell pointed out. He came to Pueblo because a distraught mother in Kansas City asked him to help find her son.

The system he uses is simple and effective. He has little trouble making friends with the men. One of his first questions to the hobo is "If you had a ten year old son and you knew he was down in these jungles, what would you do?"

Invariably the answer, phrased in strong language, is: "I'd come down here after him in a hurry."

Bell carries a portable typewriter, a Boy Scout first aid kit and small leaflets of the books of the Bible.

Although wandering about the hobo jungles has resulted many times in dangerous situations, Bell said the men usually are co-operative and sympathetic.

British Motor Magnate Gives Away 50 Millions

London.—Lord Nuffield, multi-millionaire motor magnate, passed the $50,000,000 mark in his philanthropic activities when he donated nearly a million dollars to the Oxford and District Joint Hospitals board recently.

Lord Nuffield frequently is referred to as the Rockefeller of England because of his charitable gifts. Last year he disposed of more than $30,000,000 in less than a month. In November he gave $10,000,000 to the distressed areas, following a few days later by placing another $10,000,000 of his motor company stock in trust for his employees. Three weeks later he donated another $10,000,000 to Oxford university for medical research.

In addition to his known donations of $50,000,000 it is believed many other millions have been given away during recent years. Amounts under $50,000 are handed out so frequently that they are not mentioned.

Lord Nuffield's career has closely paralleled that of Henry Ford. Like Ford, he got his start in a bicycle shop. Today cars bearing his name are found in all parts of the empire.

Historian Says Era Is

Favorable to Great Men

New London, Conn.—The present age may produce some great men, according to Dr. Dumas Malone, director of the Harvard University press and for five years editor-in-chief of the Dictionary of American Biography, who has made some interesting generalizations based on statistics from his work on the dictionary.

He said engineers, inventors and businessmen are making places for themselves beside the soldiers, writers and politicians of old. "Achievements in public life certainly will not decline," Dr. Malone said, "but it seems likely that we will produce a greater proportion of artistic and literary works than formerly."

"The present age is one of intense vitality. It is in dynamic times such as these that great things are done. Those who will become famous are most probably those who are aligning themselves with important modern trends, and losing themselves in them. . . . The combination of a dynamic period such as ours and a man of great talent and vitality might bring remarkable results."

Furniture Making Has No Age Bar for Its Workers

Grand Rapids.—There's one industry that doesn't throw a man on the scrap heap because of age. It's furniture manufacturing.

"An artisan doesn't really begin to get good until he turns the half-century mark." That's the consensus of manufacturers here.

In a plant with 164 workers, 27 per cent are between sixty and seventy-six, 45 per cent between fifty and fifty-nine. In another, hiring 180, 17 per cent are between sixty-one and sixty-five. Those are fairly typical percentages.

Most of the older employees are wood carvers and turning lathe men. Many have stood at the same bench 50 years or more. And most of them own their tools, an investment of from $250 to $500 in itself.

Teaching, dietetics and marriage are the three most popular occupations among students graduated last June from the New York State College of Home Economics, a recent study reveals.

Coffee was originally used by the Arabians to keep them awake during the long Mohammedan religious exercises.

MOTHER SHOTS FOUR CHILDREN

Hands restrained in a strait-jacket, Mrs. Bertha Watters, 38, sits dazed while officers investigate the shooting of her four children, two of whom died of their wounds. The woman ran amuck with a shotgun in her cabin near Waverly, Ia., Sheriff Frank Sager said.

U. S. Attorney General Says Jurist "Unfair"

Judge Ferdinand A. Geiger (above) of the eastern Wisconsin Federal District Court, was attacked by Attorney General Cummings as "arbitrary" and "unfair" in dismissing a grand jury before it could return indictments it had voted against three large auto companies.

Peculiarities of Geese

Geese have a way of attaching themselves to other animals as guardians and friends. One, in a British wildlife collection, took up with a crane, threatening to bite visitors or even other cranes approaching his ward. Another took under his wing a polo pony, going every day to the pasture to "protect" it. Then there's the Chinese goose that acquired a violent attachment for a dog. The dog was killed one day by another dog and the goose chased the murderer miles.

COMEDIAN DEAD; AUTOPSY ORDERED

Ted Healy (above), famous comedian of the stage and screen, died suddenly in Los Angeles under circumstances that led to an autopsy order and investigation of reports that he had been beaten a few nights before.

Professor Gives Figures on Fruit of Family Tree

Lincoln, Neb.—Pride in noble ancestry is quite the thing, but Dr. J. O. Hertzler, of the sociology department at Nebraska university, has pointed out:

Anyone now forty years old would have a possible 18 adult ancestors at the time of the American Revolution; 512 at the time of the Mayflower voyage and 524,288 at the time of King John and the Magna Charta.

Those who find an ancestor among the followers of William the Conqueror, 25 generations ago, must distinguish their relative from a possible 6,388,000 predecessors in that generation.

Court of Brotherhood

One of the most ancient courts in this country is known officially as "Court of Brotherhood and Guesting," says London Tit-Bits Magazine. It is older than the Doomsday Book, is presided over by the warden of the Cinque Ports, and to it come the port barons clad in their ceremonial coronation robes to renew their ancient oaths "to maintain their charters, franchises, liberties and customs." Among the traditional ceremonials is the reading aloud of an old order of Queen Elizabeth imposing a fine of three shillings, four pence, "to be paid forthwith," on any member speaking more than once on any subject, and the same penalty for anyone interrupting a speaker.

Chippendale's Career Traced

Although Thomas Chippendale was an English cabinet-maker who had never visited the Orient, Chinese art had a great influence on his creations. So says the Standard American Encyclopedia. It was during the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries that Chinoiserie, fanciful decorative work showing the influence of Chinese art, was brought to Europe. In the middle of the Eighteenth century chinoiserie became noticeable in every decorative craft. Prior to that time the furniture had been heavy and severe, but under Chippendale's use of Chinese art, the style became rather delicate with classical tendencies.

England Has Plenty of Fish

Fish is the only "home-produced" food of which England has enough to export, even though the average Englishman eats 65 pounds of fish each year. English hook fishers sometimes set out a line 8 miles long, carrying over 5,000 hooks! In 1870, says the Washington Post, a group of English net fishers caught 24,000,000 pichards in one haul. So heavy were these fish that they spoiled before all were removed from the net, and eventually had to be sold as fertilizer!

How Animals Spend Winter

Most animals run about, or fly, during the winter, but others find a place to spend weeks or months in sleeping. Frogs take a long rest after the weather grows cold. They go to the bottoms of ponds and burrow deeply into the mud. Some frogs live to the age of ten or twelve years.

Class controversies are very simple. It's always the other fellows that are making the trouble.

SENECA INDIAN TO TRY LIVING MONTH IN WOODS.

Conton, N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP)—In the interests of science, Alton Draper, a Seneca Indian, plans to spend a mid-winter month in the heart of the Adirondacks, living off the fat of the land.

Draper came out of the woods after a four-day "test" stay confident he can keep from freezing indefinitely but still uncertain he can find food enough to sustain him during the 30-day period in mid-winter.

"In the spring and summer there are plenty of wild berries to keep a man alive," Draper said. "But those are gone when winter comes."

The Indian plans to enter the woods alone and unarmed early next month. He says he will carry only a hunting knife and no food or blankets. He wants to test the theory that a man can live for an extended period in winter without implements or food.

Supervisor Cashdollar Entertains.

Henry's Tavern on Wall Street Tuesday night. The company included some of the county and city officials and the affair is reported to have been a most enjoyable one.

Forest fire in the Adirondack and Catskill Mountains destroyed an area of only 517 acres during the past spring and summer. District Forest Ranger James H. Hopkins, has reported.

High School Trims Saugerties; Next Boxing Show December 29

Kingston Schoolboys
Frounce Visitors in Auditorium, 49 to 21

NEVER BEHIND
Maroon and White Varsity
Leads Through Entire Game;
Jayvees Win Preliminary by 38-20 Margin.

It was a tough night for Saugerties High School at the municipal auditorium Tuesday, when Coach G. Warren Kias' two Kingston High School quintets fished excellent winning form. The Varsity, with Charley Bock, Tommy Malnes and Slat Rowland playing the high scoring roles, outpointed the Saugerties seniors by 49-21, and the Jayvees took over the junior band from northern Ulster by the margin of 38-20.

Saugerties, the one-time feared enemy of the Maroon and White, never had a chance last night. In the first quarter, the Kingston brigade outpointed the visitors 11-4, 25-8 in the second and 41-7 in the third, to smash its way to victory No. 27 in a row and the 17th at the auditorium.

Rowland set the pace with some sharp shooting that gave Kingston 11 of its points in the first half. Bill Meagher replaced Kias in the second. Charley Bock, Kingston's other luminary on the offense, did not get started as usual, but shot his way into the chief scorers when he got the range before the beginning of the second half.

High scorer for Kingston last night was Tommy Malnes, who added 15 points on six fields and a foul. Roland and Bock shared second place with 11 apiece.

Coach Kias hauled out the Varsity and substituted his second team at the beginning of the fourth quarter, when he had a lead of 41-17, and if this move did not bring taken, Kingston might have run up a more humiliating tally against their guests.

Several combinations tried by Coach Cahill failed to click for Saugerties, and Kingston went right on assaulting the net for basket after basket. Naundin did the best running for Saugerties with six points and McDowell was next with five.

In the preliminary, Lindhurst scored for Kingston with 14 points on seven fields and Grothman followed with seven. Storage Froese with four and six Saugerties took the lead in the fourth quarter.

Parents Urge Don Budge to Turn to Professional Tennis

Oakland, Calif., Dec. 22 (AP).—

The parents of Don Budge, world tennis champion who wants to remain an amateur long enough to defend the Davis Cup, urged him today to turn professional and "reap some material benefit from years of hard work." The racket star now is on an exhibition tour of Australia.

"When Donny returns home, his father's going to give him a good talking to," Mrs. John Budge, his mother, told an interviewer. "We're going to try and convince him that the wise thing to do would be to turn professional and reap some material benefit from years of hard work he has put into his tennis."

"We've always kept our opinions in the background, but now we think it's time we spoke up," quickly Mrs. Budge added. "We may talk ourselves blue in the face—but the final decision will be up to him."

That decision, sports prognosticators estimate, would make a difference of $100,000 in two seasons for his bank account. The red-head won the Wimbledon and National championships this year and led the American team to recapture the Davis Cup for the first time in 10 years.

Budge, rated the nation's No. 1 athlete of 1937 in a poll of sports editors, so far has rejected professional offers.

But, said Mrs. Budge, whose husband is a printer: "Neither Don nor we are any too well off, and there seems to be no sense to pass up such an opportunity."

Many sportsmen see Budge, who is 22, as the future traveling opponent of the winner of the coming season's professional tour between Ellsworth Vines and Fred Perry, who kept Budge from winning the National and Wimbledon titles in 1936.

Quickly Mrs. Budge added:

Many sportsmen see Budge, who is 22, as the future traveling opponent of the winner of the coming season's professional tour between Ellsworth Vines and Fred Perry, who kept Budge from winning the National and Wimbledon titles in 1936.

Quickly Mrs. Budge added:

"We may talk ourselves blue in the face—but the final decision will be up to him."

That decision, sports prognosticators estimate, would make a difference of $100,000 in two seasons for his bank account.

The red-head won the Wimbledon and National championships this year and led the American team to recapture the Davis Cup for the first time in 10 years.

Budge, rated the nation's No. 1 athlete of 1937 in a poll of sports editors, so far has rejected professional offers.

But, said Mrs. Budge, whose husband is a printer:

"Neither Don nor we are any too well off, and there seems to be no sense to pass up such an opportunity."

Jimmy Johnston Will Manage Vera Hrubá, Queen of the Ice

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—It was a moral certainty that nothing so obvious as the current winter sports hysteria could long escape the attention of James J. Johnston, known affectionately as the boy bandit.

Yesterday the derided, dapper Jimmy owed his social esteem solely to the fact that he was the manager of Bob Pastor, a heavy-weight prizefighter of dubious ability, and that he was in process of being sued for a total of $60,000 for defamation of character by two members of the New York State Boxing Commission.

Today that was nothing more than a chapter out of the Johnston past. Jimmy, as ever in step with the times, was the manager and exclusive representative of as pretty and accomplished a girl figure skater as ever came out of Czechoslovakia.

Vera Hrubá is her name, and Johnston, never a man to stut on his adjectives, has billed her modestly as Queen of the Ice.

And he says the skating fans of America "have acclaimed her a prettier girl and a more talented skater than Sonja Henie."

As a matter of fact, Vera, who came tripping into the Johnston office to sign the contract right while Jimmy was trying desperately to shoo a couple of fight writers out the side door, does possess much oom-pah. She has honey-colored hair and movie aspirations.

"I predict she'll sweep the country," said Johnston. "I'm giving her a fine start. See, on these pictures I'm sending out I call her beautiful and vivacious. She can really skate, too. I saw her in the Garden. All high class stuff, like 'bally dancing'."

But Jimmy with particular pride told the likeness of Vera in which she is poised on one skate point with the other point high above her head.

"Did you ever see anything like that?" enthused Jimmy with the same appreciation he used to have for snappy left hook. "Look where that knee is—right up even with her face," he marveled.

Slightly indignant at a suggestion that all this was a little out of his line, Johnston insisted it was nothing of the kind.

"I've done a lot of things besides the boxing racket. Why, I used to put on six-day bike races once, too. From now on I'm going to handle a lot of things. I'm going to go with Miss Hrubá and her father on some of her out-of-town engagements and by next winter I'm going to have myself a big ice rink here in town. This ice business is getting important."

It was clear Jimmy didn't want to talk much about the boxing situation. He wouldn't even discuss Mike Jacobs, the man who tossed him out of Madison Square Garden, with any animosity. So his callers sighed, looked once more at Miss Hrubá, and left.

Quickly Mrs. Budge added:

"We may talk ourselves blue in the face—but the final decision will be up to him."

That decision, sports prognosticators estimate, would make a difference of $100,000 in two seasons for his bank account.

The Year In Sports: 5

Youthful Swimmers Churn Up Record Books

By DREW MIDDLETON

New York, (AP).—Adolph Kiefer, Ralph Flanagan and Katherine Rawls plus a bumper crop of records boomed swimming in the United States during 1937.

Teams of the years were the Lake Shore Athletic club of Chicago, Michigan university and the Women's Swimming association of New York. The Lake Shore A. C. scored a double by winning the indoor and outdoor men's titles. Michigan, after winning the Western conference title for the ninth time in 11 years, went on to capture the National intercollegiate championship with Ohio State second and Yale third. The Women's S. A. of New York took the outdoor women's team title.

TB Hospital Dressed In Holiday Attire

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital is again indebted to the friendly citizens who donate and illuminate the Christmas trees for the patients at the hospital.

Joseph Garbarino for years has provided a huge tree for the hospital lawn and one for each floor in the hospital. The trees are placed in such a way that it is possible for all the patients to see them.

Leslie B. Watrous loans the necessary long extension cables and with the help of the Central Hudson crew a complete lesson in the Christmas spirit of co-operation is enacted.

The auxiliary provides entertainment and gifts donated by friends.

Bachelor-Spinner Ball Invitations Out

Invitations were extended today for the annual Bachelor and Spinner Ball to be given Wednesday night, December 29 at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Although the majority of the guests at the ball will be unmarried, invitations were also sent to the younger married set who are still within the three-year limit. Socialites of Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, Woodstock, Stone Ridge, Saugerties, Walden and Beacon also have received bids.

Dancing will be from 10 to 2 o'clock with George Saura's Golden Rule Inn orchestra and Miss Emily Buzdygan, soloist.

Personal Notes

Many of the younger set will return home within the next few days for the Christmas holidays. Among them will be Stephen Hillebrand, from New York city; Frederic Holcomb, Jr., from Virginia; Kimbel Pirie, of New York city; Wallace Buley, from Springfield; Hamilton Boyd, from Albany; and James Snead and Millard Pirie of Buffalo.

Miss Barbara Rodie of Albany avenue will attend the Bachelor-Spinner dance in Poughkeepsie this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Ellis and Dr. Charles Ellis of Margareville will arrive Thursday to spend Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Snyder of Fair street.

Mrs. Emil S. Goodyear of Pearl street left today to spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Archibald, at their home in Nashville, Tenn.

Miss Anne Fessenden arrived today from St. Agnes School in Albany to spend the holidays at her home on Fair street.

Mrs. Thomas Goldrick entertained her card club today at her home on Albany avenue.

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Krida of New York city, and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Conant and daughter, Julie Ellen, of Dedham, Mass., will arrive Friday to spend Christmas with Judge G. D. B. Heshbrouck at his home on Clinton avenue.

Mrs. Gordon Reel and Mrs. John Reel of New York city are guests of Mrs. Mary H. Preston and Mrs. Eloise P. Lovatt at their home on Mill street.

Mrs. Raoul Nadeau of New York city, is a guest of her mother, Mrs. C. S. Main of Clinton avenue.

Redeemer Christmas Pageant

Two presentations were necessary for the Christmas pageant at Redeemer Lutheran Church last Sunday evening. Although announced for 7:45 o'clock, the doors of the church were closed at 7:20 o'clock because every available seat was occupied. An overflow crowd waited in the Sunday School rooms until 9:00 o'clock, at which time the pageant was repeated. The total attendance was 1,045. The grotto scene as represented above included Mary, Joseph and two worshipping angels.

YOU'RE NEVER STUCK FOR WORDS
WHEN YOU LEARN GRACIOUS PHRASES

Be At Your Ease When You Meet People

However does she do it? A chat a minute long—but she says just the thing to leave him beaming. He'll call up for a date, you can see it in his eye.

While you—when you run into boys you'd love to be friends with—you never get farther than a self-conscious "Hello."

What you need is a little store of winning phrases. Then it's easy to follow your "Hello" with a gracious compliment. "How nice to run into you" or "How well you're looking."

You can go on cleverly with such good openers to friendly talk as "I've just heard the most amusing thing" or "What have you been doing lately?"

You flatter an acquaintance, too, if you let him know you remember when you last saw him. "That was a marvelous hat," or "The Browns' wasn't it?" Soon you're chatting away and winning a friend.

Or are the type who wet blankets the other fellow's story by dull "yesses" or "noes?" Or even "uh-huh?" Show a bright appreciation with "what did you do next," "how exciting," "I wish I'd seen it too."

Or perhaps you give the wrong impression on the telephone. Your "Well, er-a, good-by" is so crude. Be smooth with "So glad you called, good-by."

Or do you suspect your talk is a shade dull? Don't let it be a plain "I'll do it" but "I'll do it quick as a wink." Don't be just "surprised." Be "dumb with astonishment."

On all occasions—dates, parties, in business, when writing letters—dip into our 40-page booklet, 1500 Useful Phrases. With the right words on the tip of your tongue—be poised, confident, your most charming self.

Send 15c for our booklet, 1500 USEFUL PHRASES, to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 149 West 15th Street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Is As Mild A Hatchet Man As You'll Find

George D. Aiken, governor of one of the two states carried by the Republicans in the last presidential election, has leaped into national prominence with a statement lambasting Old Guard Republican leadership. What sort of a man is he? This story by Morgan M. Beatty gives you an intimate picture.

By MORGAN M. BEATTY

ULS Feature Service Writer

This man Aiken from Vermont waited 25 years to take a good healthy crack at the Republican Old Guard.

"Why, I've had a desire for a purge of the Republican party since 1912," he says, off-hand, as if you should have known all along he would unwork a hatchet when he got good and ready.

And right away, he's telling you why.

"I was too young to vote in 1912," he says, "but I never did get over the way the Southern delegates swung the nomination from Teddy Roosevelt to Taft!"

He speaks with the slow, quiet twang of the native Vermonter. His face is calm, browned by wind, and topped by a heavy shock of steel-gray hair. He's almost shy, blushing when he laughs, and wears sober blue suits.

His Scorchers.

It is hard to believe the fellow would swing on a fly. But there he stands—Governor George D. Aiken, in person—and admits all. Yes, he's the author of a scorching ultimatum to the national heads of his party—an ultimatum that ends with this stinger:

"The Republican leadership of Vermont demands a purge of reactionary and unfair elements. . . . If that demand is not met we must look elsewhere . . . for an organization!"

That from a simon-pure, old-line Vermont Republican!

He is 45 . . . married . . . the father of three girls and a boy . . . stonned his education when he graduated from high school . . .

Gov. George D. Aiken
He waited 25 years for a chance at the Old Guard went to weeding onions in his father's truck garden.

A Shrewd Farmer.

"When I was 19 I borrowed $100 at the bank," he explains, "and bought a 40-acre pasture with another fellow. We started raising raspberries, but we overdid 'em and got too much rain. The other fellow pulled out, leaving me with the plants, so I started selling plants."

From then on it was just a question of time until this canny farmer had acquired the biggest nursery business in New England, and a 580 acre estate to go with it.

Geography an Essential,
Cotton Mather Declared

Geography, "beginning with the location of Paradise," was regarded by Cotton Mather, foremost Puritan divine of the early eighteenth century, as an essential part of the "mathematical" training required for a student of the ministry, according to a study published by the Columbia University Press.

Arithmetic, geometry, astronomy, and music, likewise classified as "mathematics," were all considered by Mather to provide excellent branches of ministerial study.

The "sciences" comprised a further field to be mastered by the accomplished minister, in the opinion of Mather who, for his own scientific achievements, was the first American to be admitted to the Royal Society of London. Scorning Aristotle, traditional source of philosophical wisdom, as a "muddy-headed pagan," Mather urged the prospective clergyman of 1800 to acquaint himself instead with the principles of his celebrated British contemporary, Sir Isaac Newton.

As a possible safeguard against the "new thought" of Newton, then considered dangerous by many Mather also recommended readings in "religious philosophy," notably in his own "Christian Philosophy."

Among the "sciences," Mather listed rhetoric, which he felt could be sufficiently gleaned from reading Scripture and a few good writers. In the same scientific category he placed logic and metaphysics, both of which he despised. Ethics he approved only if it were Christian ethics using the Bible as a text, while he considered natural philosophy valuable "if undertaken with proper religious contemplation and the purpose of increasing the effectiveness of one's ministry."

Explaining his insistence on the role of the mathematical sciences in ministerial training, Mather said arithmetic and geometry would develop reasoning power; a knowledge of astronomy would prevent "babbling in the pulpit"; geography would widen the minister's horizon and give opportunity for learning of religion in the various parts of the world.

A resolution of the Associated Farmers of California condemned issuance of relief to able-bodied men while crops were left standing in the field for lack of farm labor.

The annual Ulster Grange party will be held on Wednesday evening. There will be a pot luck supper at 6 o'clock for members and families, followed by a Christmas entertainment and tree.

Bert Huth will sing a song, Miss Mary Polhemus will give a Christmas reading, Raymond Quick will play a few selections on his harmonica, Miss Mabel Story will read a Christmas poem and there will be group singing and games. All those attending are asked to bring sandwiches and a covered dish and a small gift.

Somebody says this business situation is "a recess and not a recession." All right, but when does the teacher ring the bell?

Australia holds seventh place in the world list of civil aircraft and third place within the British Empire.

To wish You a Merry Xmas in Your Own Home

"The fellow went around asking people to vote for him, and damned if I would." He kept his peace for 10 years, ran for the legislature again, and made the grade. He was speaker of the house in 1935, ran for governor in '36 and got the usual Republican majority.

To top it all off, this neophyte in politics tells you he's surprised that his letter to the bigwigs caught the attention of a national audience.

He says he didn't expect the limelight of a mass interview, the bursts of flashbulbs, and the pow-wow with Republican Chairman John Hamilton in Washington.

His Answers Ready.

"My first experience of this kind" he agrees, and adds, smiling, "Perhaps my last."

Anyway, the rapid-fire questioning doesn't cross up the cautious governor of Vermont for a minute. When he hasn't the answers, he says he doesn't know. When he thinks he knows, he cuts loose with plain Vermont language.

"Do you think the Republican party is in a bad way?"

"Yes, and the public knows the Republican party is in a bad way. Millionaires and college presidents can't win any elections. You've got to have some voters."

"But what about the labor program?"

"Up in Vermont we don't have much of a labor problem. Naturally I favor organization by labor. Beyond that I don't know what to tell you."

"What can you say for the Roosevelt labor program?"

"I don't intend to be abusive of any person, but it looks as though the Roosevelt administration has done everything for the workers but give 'em a job."

"Do you favor the general objectives of the Roosevelt administration?"

"Vermont is cooperating with every federal agency set up under the social security act. But we must see that the burden imposed on one class doesn't exceed the benefits to another."
